Downtown Fire Rages 5 Hours

ALGERIA SABOTAGE SUSPECTED

Ship Blast Kills 200

ALGIERS (Reuters)—At least 200 persons died and 22 were injured when the Egyptian ship Star of Alexandria blew up while unloading ammunition in the east Algerian port of Bone Thursday, latest estimates said today.

The figures were quoted by an employee of the Bone prefecture. He said an estimated 130 persons were missing and 52 seriously injured in hospitals.

Ambulances still took dead and injured to hospitals, and workers searched the shambles along the Bone waterfront.

A provisional estimate of damage to the harbor area was put at 70,000,000 dinars ($14,000,000).

The Algiers newspaper Alger Ce Soir said there were indications the explosion aboard the 2,738-ton vessel could have been "an act of sabotage committed by counter-revolutionaries from abroad."

$63,000 Block Stuffed With 'Goodwill' Stock

By DESMOND BILL

Ninety persons were put out of work and a downtown building was half destroyed this morning in one of the city's worst fires.

The largest turnout of city firemen in recent years battled for five hours to bring the blaze at the old Brackman-Ker Building at the corner of Broad and Pandora under control. They were still on the job at press time.

The fire was in the windowless top floor of the 58-year-old structure. Firemen finally had to pull the roof right off the building to get at it.

DROWNED FIRE

Then they literally drowned the fire with thousands of gallons of water poured on it from the roofs of nearby buildings.

The building was sold two months ago for $63,000 to Lou MacDonald of MacDonald's Ltd. furniture store, 752 Fort. He said it was adequately covered by insurance.

But Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped, which occupied the whole building, has had its entire operation ruined and the 90 persons it employs will likely be out of work.

The top floor of the building was stuffed to the brim with clothes, bedding and small hardware which is essential to the Goodwill operation.

Appliances, radios and furniture donated to Goodwill were kept on the second floor. Forty handicapped persons worked on the main floor, sewing, sorting and pressing.

The entire contents of the building were ruined.

NO INSURANCE

George Gray, president and manager of Goodwill Enterprises, said there is no insurance to cover this kind of loss. He could put no value on the damage because almost all the building's contents were donated by citizens who support the operation for handicapped workers.

Mr. Gray said Goodwill can't keep operating without materials to process. He appealed for the public to replace the material that is lost.

Officials of the Rotary Club, which sponsors Goodwill Enterprises, also appealed for public contributions so the workers can continue their jobs.

Fire Chief John Abbott said it was impossible to determine the cause of the fire. There was speculation it may have been caused by mice chewing through electrical wiring.

It was first reported shortly after 7 a.m. by Miss Lilly Bell, 637 Dunedin, who saw smoke and drew the attention of a passing police patrol car to it.

FLAMES LEAPED

Flames were leaping up out of the roof at the beginning but quickly changed to thick, grey smoke which continued to pour out for five hours while firemen tried to get at the seat of the blaze.

By 7:30 six fire rigs were on the scene and a call went out for more men. There were 40 firemen by the time all off-duty men were called in.

At first they tried to chop holes in the side of the completely walled-in top floor but the fire hoses they put through the openings had no effect.

Chief Abbott said his greatest worry was that the roof would fall. Rising temperatures are expected to increase the forest fire hazard, however, at least in the southern half of the province.

By Friday, 51 forest fires were burning in B.C., none of them considered dangerous.

WIRE BRIEFS

Fishermen to Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) announced today that 3,000 fisheries shoreworkers will vote early next week on a new contract offered by the British Columbia Fisheries Association.

Gang Assaults Youth

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 19-year-old youth was viciously beaten early today by a gang of teen-agers. Charles Venables was in hospital today with a broken shoulder. He said the gang of five teenagers suddenly attacked him for no reason, dragging him into an alley.

S. Viet Nam Asks Aid

Battle On in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Civil war erupted in half a dozen spots in central Laos today but the heaviest fighting was around strategic Phou Kout Hill near the Plain des Jarres where a see-saw battle raged for hours.

Chief Justice Sherwood Lett Dies Suddenly

Government leaders, eminent jurists and prominent lawyers today paid tribute to Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the B.C. Court of Appeal, who died in Vancouver Friday night after a sudden relapse following a prolonged illness.

He would have been 69 next Saturday.

The chief justice suffered a heart attack while attending the opening of the B.C. legislature here last February.

His death came almost a year to the day after he ruled that the B.C. government's expropriation of the B.C. Electric company was unconstitutional.

Premier Shocked

Premier Bennett, whose government was the loser by the ruling, said he was "shocked and saddened" by the death of the chief justice.

"The people of this province and of Canada have suffered a

SUNNY SUNDAY SENT US

Sunday will be just that—a day with sun.

Weatherman William MacKie said this afternoon temperatures should hit the high seventies in Victoria on Sunday, making the general forecast "sunny and warm, pleasantly so."

The mercury may dip to 53 tonight.

Rising temperatures are expected to increase the forest fire hazard, however, at least in the southern half of the province.

By Friday, 51 forest fires were burning in B.C., none of them considered dangerous.

MONUMENTAL WORK

Mr. Justice H. W. Davey of the B.C. Appeal Court, said the B.C. Electric judgment, declaring the expropriation of the company invalid, was "a monumental work."

"I think it was in some degree responsible for his illness," Mr. Justice Davey said.

2,000 Negroes On Rampage In Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Two thousand enraged Negroes battled police and state troopers today in race rioting and looting that lasted more than 10 hours.

City officials declared a public emergency and later imposed a city-wide curfew.

Steel-helmeted police and 211 state troopers used high pressure water hoses and tear gas grenades to bring the knife-wielding, brick and bottle-throwing Negroes under control.

There still were a few sporadic outbreaks in the two-square-mile Negro neighborhood where the violence erupted but the full-scale civil insurrection had been quelled by 10 a.m. EDT.

White toughs helped trigger the outbreaks.

City officials were fearful that the widespread rioting and looting that injured 98 persons, including 24 policemen, might break out again at any moment.

City manager Porter W. Homer announced the curfew at 1:30 p.m. EDT following a meeting of top city officials.

CLOSE TAVERNS

Homer also asked that all bars and saloons stay closed and urged that even people with

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE.

We went for a spin the other day with Norm Britnell, local Jaguar fan, in the latest product from that little car factory in Coventry.

A great experience it was, too. Even with the engine speeds restricted because the car was running in, the new S-type offered plenty of pace as well as grace, the all-independent suspension helping the semi-compact to hang onto the road like glue all the way.

Just in case this makes you look wildly around for a dealer at whom to fling your money, remember the price—about $6,400—and the fact that the factory can't produce to meet the demand, you'll have to wait many months.

The fish and game branch of the B.C. Recreation Department gave a testimonial luncheon today to J. W. Winsor of Vancouver who wrote a nature column for many years under the non-de-plume of Wildwood.

Wildwood has turned over several hundreds of his published and unpublished nature studies to Wildlife Review, published by the fish and game branch.

"These will serve us well for many years to come," a spokesman said.

Rev. John Garden, DD, former principal of Mount Royal College, Calgary, tells of the time one of his faculty called on him and said he was worried about students climbing out of upstairs windows to carve their names on a high wall.

"I'm afraid they'll break their necks," the facultyman said. "I'm afraid they might find my name up there," Dr. Garden replied.

He is now an assistant minister at Metropolitan United Church.

Jurymen on duty at Victoria Law Courts (and obliged to serve if called) are sometimes indignant because they get parking tickets for leaving their cars outside.

I inquired if there is any way of identifying jurymen's cars so that they don't get tickets while confined in courtrooms, for hours on end.

It seems there is no such distinction. Anyone and everyone parking outside the Law Courts for more than two hours is liable to get a ticket—and many do.

How about a special sticker for the poor old jurymen to put on his windscreen?

Among the many Victorians holidaying in the British Isles just now is attractive, dark-eyed Maureen Smith, an official shorthand reporter at the Law Courts.

Miss Smith is touring England, where she was educated, and plans a visit to Ireland, where she spent her early childhood.

Because of her musical Irish brogue, she is usually regarded as a native of Ireland. In actual fact, she was born in India.

How times have changed—or have they? The following was a complaint submitted to city council in 1910 and reported in the Times, a copy of which was found Friday in the attic of the Beacon Hill Rest Home:

Messrs. McCandless complained of a scandalous state of affairs on Johnson Street owing to the large number of saloons on that thoroughfare, a greater number, in proportion, than on any other street of the city. The cases of drunkenness were very numerous and the spectacle of drunken men reeling about the street was a very common one. So serious has the situation become that the businessmen on that street, of whom there were many, were suffering a loss of patronage. They related that only recently some of their customers had informed them that they would refuse to allow their children to come to their store, owing to the danger of running into drunken men.

Children's humor is a delectable thing, and I like the story Mason Sheldrick—the city's assistant comptroller-treasurer—told the boys on the way to the lacrosse game the other night.

One of Poppa Sheldrick's Sunday morning obligations is seeing that his five-year-old daughter has some silver to offer at Sunday school collection.

Well, Mason slipped up recently.

"Daddy," his daughter said after she had returned from church, "you forgot to give me my Sunday school money today."

"But they let me in anyhow."

BOB HOPE COMING HERE FOR ROUND OF GOLF

Bob Hope plans to come here for a round of golf at Victoria Golf Club Monday before he heads for Hollywood to make a new movie, I'll Take Sweden.

The comedian is currently fishing off Stuart Island, 30 miles north of Campbell River.

He seems to be attracting fish as well as he attracts laughs. His biggest catch so far is a 26-pounder.

Hope is not accompanied by his family this trip, but is making plans to bring them along when he returns after making his new movie.

justice was "a model which young people in this province should study and on which they could well pattern their lives."

"I enjoyed an acquaintance with him lasting 20 years, from my undergraduate days at UBC, in alumni activity, in the militia and in private practice, but particularly during the last 12 years when Sherwood Lett was university chancellor at UBC and more latterly chief justice in our courts."

Lieut. Ronald Benson was also taken to hospital right at 12:25, but no details were available as to his condition.

SPRANG UP

Several times it looked as if the fire was being extinguished but when firemen moved their hoses to another part of the roof it sprang up again where they had just left.

"He was highly respected by the Victoria Bar Association," said Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre, president.

"We always found him most competent and patient and I had the pleasure of welcoming him on behalf of the Victoria Bar Association when he first came here as chief justice."

"He was a most remarkable man—distinguished in peace and war."

GREATEST REGARD

"We had the greatest regard for him," said Mr. Farris. "He was a distinguished soldier, a distinguished lawyer and a very fine judge."

Born at Trois-Rivières, Ont., Chief Justice Lett left McGill University College to enlist with the Irish Fusiliers of Canada at the outbreak of the First World War. He won the Military Cross at Amiens in 1918 and, while in the trenches, completed the work for an arts degree from UBC, graduating in the first class in 1916.

He attended Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar, was called to the bar of B.C. in 1922 and joined a Vancouver law firm in 1925.

As brigadier, he led the 4th Infantry Brigade in the Dieppe Raid of 1942. He was severely wounded and awarded the DSO.

After convalescence and a period as deputy chief of staff at Ottawa, he returned to Europe and was wounded again at Caen in July, 1944.

UBC CHANCELLOR

He was chancellor of UBC from 1951 to 1957 and in 1954 was named chief of the Canadian delegation on the International Supervisory Commission of the cease-fire in Indo-China.

He was named chief justice of the B.C. Supreme Court in 1955 and chief justice of the appeal court in June 1963.

Chief Justice Lett is survived by the widow, Evelyn, and two daughters.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

UN Headquarters Alarmed As Cyprus Crisis Worsens

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—

The United Nations mission in Cyprus is in deep trouble.

Some countries are threatening to pull out of the four-month-old military force operating on the island under the UN banner. And there is talk about adverse effects on future UN peace operations.

Behind the growing crisis is a continued buildup of military forces from Greece and Turkey that have been pouring into Cyprus to back the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities. United Nations appeals to halt the buildup have been ignored.

UN Secretary-General U Thant has refused so far to call the Security Council into session to deal with the problem but he is under pressure from several of the countries with contingents in the UN force.

A letter to the Swedish government earlier this week, Thant asserted, that unless the buildup of Greek and Turkish forces is stopped "the effectiveness both of the United Nations forces in Cyprus and of the members of dicator may be gravely impaired."

MAY WITHDRAW

Sweden and Denmark have notified the secretary-general that they may withdraw their contingents if the present situation continues. Thant was understood to have discussed the problem with British government leaders in London this week.

In Canada, the leader of the New Democratic Party, T. C. Douglas, declared that the UN is being played for a sucker in Cyprus. Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker asked whether it was not serious when UN forces are being treated "with contempt" by the government of Cyprus.

Thant said he was not ready to call a Security Council meeting until he had more detailed information on troop buildups, but he made a stiff note to President Makarios of Cyprus Thursday complaining about restrictions being placed on the movement of UN forces.

REPORT MOVEMENTS

Dispatches from Cyprus Friday reported continued movement of convoys from the coast to other parts of Cyprus, carrying heavy crates which UN officials said contained "unknown cargo." UN sources have estimated that 5,000 military personnel from Greece and 300 from Turkey have been landed on the island secretly.

Makarios told the secretary-general that "so long as the threat of a Turkish invasion continues, my government has the responsibility and the duty to build up its defences to protect the territorial integrity of the country."

The main concern of Sweden, Canada, Britain, Denmark and others participating in the UN force is that their forces will be caught in the middle of a civil war or, even worse, a war between Greece and Turkey.

Britain has not threatened to spread that the Negroes were fighting police, gangs of white toughs invaded the area, and the fighting erupted into a full-scale race riot.

ABANDON AREA

Police were forced to abandon the area to the looters and rioters until daybreak. They set up barricades at the perimeters of the neighborhood, preventing anyone from entering or leaving.

Some looting was reported in other sections of the city by both whites and Negroes who took advantage of the situation. This, however, was not widespread.

CONTROL AT NOON

By noon firemen had the fire under control and rigs were returning to the station.

Chief Abbott said the fire was one of the most awkward he has had to tackle in all his years on the job.

He said it was certainly the worst one in many years in Victoria.

WORSE PREDICTED

Shortly before the curfew was declared, Rev. Marvin Chandler, a Negro Baptist minister who is associate executive director of the Rochester area council of churches, said "This is a very angry neighborhood. Last night will be a Sunday school picnic compared to what will happen tonight."

There was so much debris on the streets from broken shop windows and whisky and beer bottles that high-lifts, small bulldozers with scoop buckets, had to be called in to help clear the rubble.

Homer said that he could not order liquor, stores, bars and saloons to remain closed, but urged that they do so. He also asked that any store in the city selling guns also remain closed.

He extend sincere sympathy to his wife and family."

BARRY NEEDED

Civil Rights
To Stay
In Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has laid out his path for the fall campaign along the high road of politics, stressing peace, prosperity, moderation and avoiding personal attacks on his Republican opponent, Barry Goldwater.

He said all this again Friday in a televised press conference.

But—at the same time—"old campaigners" Johnson just could not resist a chance to needle the Arizona senator on the role in the campaign of civil rights, civilian control over nuclear weapons and lawlessness in the streets.

The press conference covered a variety of topics. But it always returned to one subject—Johnson's campaign next fall against Goldwater.

Asked if he expected "a rather rough campaign," Johnson replied:

"Most campaigns are rough campaigns. I'm an old campaigner. I have been at it 30 years. One of the first things I learned, at least so far as I am concerned, is the people are not much interested in my personal opinion of my opponent."

PURPOSE OF ELECTIONS

Speaking only two hours before a scheduled meeting with Goldwater to discuss the racial question and other subjects, Johnson said, ". . . I do not believe that any issue which is before the people can be eliminated from the campaign in a free society in an election year. After all, that is the purpose of elections, to discuss the issues."

Later, the two men met for 16 minutes and released a short statement saying they agreed "racial tensions should be avoided" in the campaign ahead.

Johnson, in the press conference, went on to say:

"If Senator Goldwater and his advisers, and his followers, will follow the same course that I intend to follow . . . which is a course of rebuffing and rebuking bigots and those who seek to excite and exploit tensions, then it will be most welcome . . ."

PRESIDENT'S JOB

Asked about Goldwater's suggestion that at least the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander should be given more authority in the use of nuclear weapons, Johnson said this is the president's responsibility.

". . . The control of the nuclear weapons is one of the most solemn responsibilities of the president of the United States—the man who is president can never get away from that responsibility and can never forget it."

"The American people rely on his good judgment. They want the authority vested in a civilian. They do not expect to abandon this duty to military men in the field . . ."

Johnson also announced a new aircraft system, the SR-71 long range advanced strategic reconnaissance plane, capable of world-wide reconnaissance, able to fly three times the speed of sound and operate at 80,000 feet.

He disputed a charge made by French President de Gaulle that the United States has attempted to dominate Europe and rejected a de Gaulle proposal of a four-power conference on Viet Nam and Laos, saying there could be no new conference "until there is demonstrated upon the part of those who are ignoring the agreements reached at the conference table, some desire to carry out their agreements . . ."

VANCOUVER LOVES MOBY DOLL

No Sale for Whale

VANCOUVER (CP) — Moby Doll the killer whale is not for sale.

Aquarium officials say they couldn't sell the whale after local businesses and the armed forces have donated time and equipment which they estimate would have cost a small fortune if the bills had to be paid.

Burrard Drydock was the biggest contributor in the whale operation, and Friday the company's floating drydock containing the captive whale was pulled across English Bay here and the whale was moved to its new home.

Even the Vancouver police boat contributed to the action when its shrill siren was turned on to scare the whale out of the drydock and into her new pen.

A local towing company provided six tugs to pull the drydock seven miles to Jericho army base, a gate was made for the pen by a wire rope company and old fence from Chilliwack and Jericho army bases ing cheer by other members of the crew.

A team of navy frogmen from Esquimalt and army personnel assembled the pen between pilings at a deserted army wharf.

Scientists and doctors also contributed time. But all agreed the time and expenditure was well worth it, considering that Vancouver has the only live killer whale in captivity.

"Wow, I wasn't really sure we were going to make it," said aquarium curator Dr. Murray Newman, summing up the 10-hour move.

The trip across the harbor was uneventful but when the time came to move the whale from the drydock to the pen, the fun started.

Vince Penfold, assistant curator, was perched in a small flat-bottomed boat inside the drydock. For two hours he tried to force the 17-foot whale out.

Once he grabbed the whale's dorsal fin and was given a rousing cheer by other members of the crew.

The whale, estimated to weigh 2½ tons, finally was forced through a special chute and into the enclosure.

"This is a very intelligent animal," Dr. Newman said.

"It has a type of built-in radar and emits supersonic sounds. It knew all the time we were trying to force it through a funnel."

The big job now is to get Moby Doll onto a regular diet. She has eaten little since her capture nine days ago. Scientists will also try to determine the sex of the whale and they plan a series of tests on the whale's heart, brain, blood, voice and chromosones.

Bill Monahan and Dave Brown, president and curator of California's Marineland of the Pacific, took a look at the whale and said they would be interested in acquiring it.

But Moby Doll is not for sale.

ONE SHOT

Blanc chased the bandit around a corner and fired a shot just as he was getting into a car.

The gunman turned, aimed carefully and fired a single shot that blew off most of Blanc's head.

He then left the car and headed on foot down a side street.

As he was about to enter another auto commanded from another bank customer, a police cruiser pulled in behind him.

PURSUER SHOT

'Beatle' Bank Killer Sought

By DOUGLAS MacRAE

TORONTO (UPI)—A rifle-toting bandit wearing a beatle wig shot and killed a bank customer and wounded a police officer after he robbed a north end bank of $20,000 Friday.

Police manned roadblocks throughout the area and launched an overnight dragnet for the killer, described as tall, thin and of fair complexion.

He escaped in a car stolen from another bank customer.

According to police reconstruction of the holdup, the bandit, wearing a false nose, dark glasses and the wig, strode into the branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in a crowded shopping plaza at 5:05 p.m.

He opened a guitar case and took out a large-calibre automatic hunting rifle, walked into Manager H. W. Martens' office and pumped two bullets into the wall over the manager's head. Martens was talking with a customer.

"This is a holdup. I want all the money in the bank," the gunman shouted.

NO JOKE

Martens said he "thought it was a joke until he fired the gun. This was my first holdup in nearly 40 years with the bank."

The bandit leaped atop an accountant's counter and ordered employees to open tellers' cash boxes and the vault.

After scooping the bills into a canvas knapsack, he ordered the 25 customers and 10 staff out the front door, telling them to split into two columns and walk in opposite directions on the sidewalk away from the bank.

Jack Blanc, 56, a skin-diving instructor, told a teller as the bandit was leaving, "quick, give me a gun. I'm a crack shot."

ONE SHOT

Blanc chased the bandit around a corner and fired a shot just as he was getting into a car.

The gunman turned, aimed carefully and fired a single shot that blew off most of Blanc's head.

He then left the car and headed on foot down a side street.

As he was about to enter another auto commanded from another bank customer, a police cruiser pulled in behind him.

False Economy

THE VICTORIA CITY COUNCIL is quite right when it claims that a provincial government ruling restricting provincial financial aid for winter works projects solely to welfare recipients is unreasonable.

To a considerable degree it is also self-defeating for the government to limit its participation in the programs to paying the bill for 50 per cent of the work done by persons in receipt of welfare assistance for a period of three months. The effect of this may well be cancellation of some works with the result that more rather than fewer persons will be out of work.

As Ald. Toone noted there were very few people in the three-months' welfare category in Victoria last winter. If the ruling had been in effect there would have been little provincial winter works' financial aid forthcoming and the number of projects would have been cut back. Using winter works programs as a means of providing work for welfare recipients is a very laudable objective, provided there are enough candidates with suitable skills and provided that objective does not sabotage the larger purpose of keeping on the job people currently working in order to smooth out the employment cycle.

In view of the concern which the municipalities are bound to express over the potential loss in works and increase in unemployment, it is possible that Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell will take a second look at this ruling. It should not be too difficult to work out a compromise whereby maximum employment of long-time relief recipients can be assured along with the greatest possible number of winter works projects to keep the jobless rolls down.

It cost the provincial government only $1,750,000 last winter to provide its 25 per cent share of municipal works. But with the municipalities' 25 per cent share and the 50 per cent contribution of the federal government, those works employed 8,000 men for 498,000 man-days.

If this provincial contribution—small in comparison to the wealth of the province of which Mr. Campbell's government is so proud—is refused except in a small number of cases and this results in a cut-back in the program, then the government will probably more than make it up in additional relief payments. This would be false economy indeed.

North American 12-Mile Limit?

LATE LAST MONTH TWO little-publicized discussions of Canada's plan to establish a 12-mile fisheries limit lent emphasis to a vital factor in any such law.

At a seminar in Vancouver and in the repetition of a brief to the standing committee on marine and fisheries in Ottawa a spokesman underscored the desirability of reciprocal agreements between Canada and the United States.

Dr. F. W. Royce, director of the Fisheries Research Institute at the University of Washington, speaking at the seminar on the Canadian straight baseline 12-mile limit, pointed out that action taken by one country along such lines invited similar, retaliatory action by another. If the United States were to follow that course in Alaskan waters, he noted, the limits would take in most of the continental shelf along the Alaskan coast—and consequently could be off-limits to Canadian fishermen.

"Therefore," said Dr. Royce, "it would seem to be prudent for the United States and Canada first to seek agreement in principle on the location of baselines which will define the internal waters."

In Ottawa, a spokesman for the Fisheries Council of Canada, anxious to see baselines set quickly to avoid efforts by many nations to establish historic rights, recognized "the necessity of honoring established treaties with France and United States through negotiation and agreement..."

The prospect of the United States being forced to follow Canada's example in extending seaward fisheries limits immediately raises the question of reciprocal fishing rights between the two.

"We are dealing," said the spokesman, "in effect, with a North American fisheries problem, not just a Canadian one. We have to take into account joint interests, intermingling of fish stocks, historical intermingling of fishing operations, and the several fisheries treaties to which both countries are parties."

The fact that the two countries have achieved such success in their joint work to protect salmon runs and to restore halibut fisheries on the Pacific Coast lends strength to the Canadian-American joint approach to the matter.

'Exporting' Resource Control

THE TREND TOWARD "SELLING OUT" Canadian resources and enterprises to foreigners—mostly Americans—slowed down significantly last year largely because of the announced intention of the United States government to tax investments abroad.

So far this year, however, the evidence seems to be that the slowdown of 1963 was merely temporary and the amount of Canadian assets going to foreign control is being increased again. A prime reason for this seems to be that the fast pace of Canadian economic growth has proved inviting to foreigners and the quickest way to get a stake in the growth is by taking over established Canadian companies.

According to The Financial Post, on the basis of take-overs that have been publicly announced more individual Canadian-controlled companies have been bought out by foreign interests in the first half of this year than in the whole of last year. In the first quarter of the year the net inflow of foreign capital into this country was $75 millions and a major share of that went into take-overs. In five big deals alone—John Labatt Ltd., Alberta Distillers' Ltd., Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd., Building Products Ltd. and Greening Industries Ltd.—control of Canadian assets totalling $143 millions passed into foreign hands for an investment of $94 millions.

If the present take-over rate continues there is little doubt that foreign control of Canadian resources will again become a hot political issue as it was in 1962 when Finance Minister Walter Gordon made his abortive attempt to check the trend.

Mr. Gordon, in fact, has recently been mentioning the problem in speeches, although without indicating what he is prepared to do about it.

No one in Ottawa, apparently, doubts that the minister of finance is as firmly opposed to Canadians selling off their assets to foreigners as he ever was. But he will also, no doubt, be kept in check by cabinet colleagues who perceive the dangers—political and economic—of any measures which would inhibit foreign investment in Canada.

During the past year, particularly in the aftermath of the American foreign investment tax announcement, Canadians have shown a remarkable ability to raise equity financing at home for many projects. Unfortunately, the amount available has still fallen far short of that required by a rapidly-expanding economy and heavy imports of foreign capital have been welcomed by the business community, if not by Mr. Gordon.

Nationalization In Iraq

IRAQ'S LATEST VENTURE INTO the type of Arab "socialism" espoused by Egyptian President Nasser was made last week when Premier Taher Yahya announced nationalization of all private and foreign banks and insurance companies along with some 30 industrial and commercial firms.

Significantly the Iraqi government left alone for the time being the Iraq Petroleum group of companies. This group, the largest and most important financial interest in the country, also provides the bulk of government revenues. Premier Yahya is believed to have considered the nationalization of oil but, reflect-

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

As you wander about the byroads and trails you will see many ways which nature has devised for plants to spread their seeds.

Many berries such as blackberry, salmonberry and huckleberry are spread by birds which eat the fruit and the hard seeds pass through their bodies or are carried in their crops.

In this group can be included some of the trees such as the arbutus, cascara and the yew.

Mammals help in the distribution by carrying the sticky or barbed seeds in their coats—the burrs, sweet-cicely, spear grass and many others could be included in this group.

Wind plays an important part in the distribution of seeds, dandelions, thistles, oyster plant and, amongst the trees, the maples, firs and elms.

In this group are many that have tuft-like miniature parachutes which have a tiny anchoring device to hold them in the ground on contact.

Others are spread by mechanical means, such as the spring-like action of the pods on the broom, vetches and peas.

It is possible that insects carry some of the dust-like seeds that nature has devised.

FROM WASHINGTON

Harlem Riots—Not a Theory But a Condition

ANYONE TRYING to look at the Harlem riots in the light of the official ideology adopted in the Cow Palace is bound, it seems to me, to quote Grover Cleveland. We are dealing not with a theory, but with a condition.

There is no meaningful relationship between the Harlem facts and the Cow Palace theories. The rioting did not break out because the Goldwater platform is not sympathetic with the grievances of the Negroes. The rioting did not break out because a coalition of Republicans and Democrats have enacted the civil rights bill.

The rioting did not break out because the budget is unbalanced or because the federal government has usurped the powers of the states.

As a police problem, which it is in the first instance, the Harlem disorders are the responsibility of the New York government and its police force. If they can't cope with the disorder, they can call for help upon the governor of New York and on the federal government. But federal and state intervention are bound to remain secondary.

The main responsibility is and will always remain that of the mayor of New York. We must suppose, therefore, that when Senator Goldwater inveighs against crime and declares that the streets must be made safer for law-abiding citizens, he is not suggesting that we establish in this country a national police force commanded by the president. For of all imaginable kinds of centralized power and potential threats to local and individual freedom, a national police force would be the most blatant.

If he were president, Senator Goldwater could do no more than President Johnson is doing, which is to assist the mayor of New York City in his efforts to restore law and order.

When we look beneath the immediate need, which is to stop the rioting, we are confronted most vividly with a condition—a condition of racial conflict—with which the Cow Palace ideology does not come to grips.

The condition is that so many of the grievances which more and more Negroes find endurable are not redressed by the civil rights act itself and can be redressed only so slowly that the leadership of the moderate Negroes is threatened by the platform.

For one thing, the platform is tailored to attract the votes of the white supremacists, and the immediate withdrawal of Gov. George Wallace from the presidential race is proof that the platform was accurately tailored. The whole weight of the platform is to throw the onus of racial disorder on the Negroes and at the same time to do nothing, indeed to obstruct doing anything much, to redress the grievances of the Negroes.

These unredressed grievances have do with housing, jobs and schools. They will continue to be for a long time inferior to the standards of white people. The "white backlash" is at those points of friction where better housing, better jobs and better schools for Negroes threaten to enrich on the somewhat better, but not much better, housing, jobs and schools of the poorer whites.

Senator Goldwater has shown a commendable distaste for identifying himself with the white backlash. But the ideology of the Cow Palace would do nothing to allay and much to aggravate the racial conflict between the grievances of the Negroes and the grievances of the whites.

For the fact remains that the protest of the whites is against the redress of the grievances of the Negroes.

For one thing, the platform is tailored to attract the votes of the white supremacists, and the immediate withdrawal of Gov. George Wallace from the presidential race is proof that the platform was accurately tailored. The whole weight of the platform is to throw the onus of racial disorder on the Negroes and at the same time to do nothing, indeed to obstruct doing anything much, to redress the grievances of the Negroes.

For the indisputable truth of the matter is that in general throughout the country it would be impossible to provide better houses, better schools and better jobs through the state and local governments alone. Without substantial increases of federal aid to the states and localities, without an effective fiscal policy which increases employment, neither the mayor of New York nor the mayor of Phoenix can alone deal with the causes of crime and disorder.

If we look at the facts and not at the theories, we must see, I think, that the truth is more comprehensive than the theories. Neither the elephant nor the donkey can walk far on his two right legs alone. The truth is that to deal with a great condition like the racial movement it is necessary to act at all the levels of government, from the precinct to the federal republic. Not only is it necessary to act at all levels, it is also necessary to act more energetically at all levels.

The condition which confronts us involves the happiness of millions and the tranquillity and security of all. Dealing with it is a public responsibility from which no citizen can exempt himself.

THE ELECTION IN MOSCOW

Mr. Khrushchev Builds Up His Inner Caucus

THE voting was secret and confined to a handful of men, members of the highest Communist Party organs, in Russia's own presidential elections last week. They decided that Mr. Anastas Mikoyan, the veteran survivor, should become the new President, or chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet; further, that Leonid Brezhnev should vacate the Presidential chair in order to devote himself to party affairs.

This simple little operation, so different from the feverish procedures of American elections may nevertheless be compared with them in importance. There was no constitutional need for a change of President: Mr. Brezhnev could have held the office until he died. The President has no powers. He need be nothing more than the formal Head of State, a figurehead, a receiver of distinguished visitors, a distributor of decorations.

Upgrading

For many years he was nothing more than this; but when Mr. Brezhnev, a man of very considerable calibre, and one of Mr. Khrushchev's strongest supporters, was translated to this office from important party work four years ago, when he was only 54, it looked as though the job was being upgraded. Mr. Mikoyan, still only 69, will keep it upgraded. He will be a formal Head of State experienced as no one else in the Soviet Union. Mr. Khrushchev excepted, in dealing authoritatively with foreign statesmen.

He is more than this. He is a monument to the idea of active coexistence.

LIKES AND DISLIKES

WE MET AN Australian nurse in Florence who threw some light on this strange problem of national appeal, and how variously it affects different visitors. "I've noticed," she said, "that Anglo-Saxons either go for Spain or Italy. If they like one, then it's long odds that the other will leave them cold." I tried this over in my mind to test its validity, and it certainly works for me and most of the people

Mr. Khrushchev, at a difficult moment in his career, has contrived a powerful inner caucus of men on whom he can perfectly rely—Mikoyan as President, Brezhnev with Podgorny dominating the party secretariat, Kosygin, the formidable technocrat (also deeply experienced in dealing with foreigners), powerful in the party Presidium. There are younger men too. But if Khrushchev were to die tomorrow his immediate heirs would be found among these men.

Signal to Others

He is thus in the strongest possible position to push through and develop his own most controversial policies. Last week's reshuffle was also a signal, the latest of a whole series of signals, to the fraternal parties, to China, to America, that although Mr. Khrushchev is marking time at the moment, his long-term plans are maturing and that he is in a position to turn them out—if only the times are propitious.

His long-term plans are clearly concerned with the continued lessening of international tension and the repudiation of aggressive Communist expansionism. The Chinese are correct in accusing Mr. Khrushchev of moving towards the Western camp and of sacrificing the revolutionary movement to this end.

His difficulty is that the new line, which is clearly reflected in the course of the Sino-Soviet quarrel has fallen a little out of step with the march of history.

The Soviet Union is now moving ahead of the U.S. Last week's apothecary at the Cow Palace in San Francisco makes it that much easier for Mr. Khrushchev to do what he wants.

problem are three of them, but they can't be the whole answer.

I couldn't speak Portuguese either, and Dr. Salazar doesn't command himself to me any more than does the dumpy figure at the helm in Spain, but I enjoyed the time we spent in Portugal, in spite of the same financial embarrassment that drove us into quarters of which the health authorities in Victoria would certainly not approve. I guess it's one of those chemical things, as the modern Hollywood dialogue-writers are fond of saying. The General and I were obviously not made for each other.

How different are my feelings for Italy, a country which has always attracted me with a powerful magnetism, and yet there are a number of good reasons why I might have found it antipathetic. My earliest memory of the country dates back to 1936: as a small boy I found myself on a hot Naples afternoon in urgent quest of a gabinetto, while all around there seemed to be nothing but plumbers' supply stores, each window full of the mocking, unattainable fixtures. What was an agony for the inhibited Anglo-Saxon would have been no problem for a Neapolitan.

In spite of this traumatic experience at an impressionable age I was not filled with loathing for the country where it had occurred. Nor was my love for Italy wholly impaired by spending six months in Capua and Modena as a prisoner in 1943. If you have to be a prisoner anywhere, let me recommend Italy to you most warmly. The climate is good, the guards were friendly, and Italian army rations include a daily ration of wine which goes some way to mitigate the worst rigors of imprisonment.

I cannot claim to have learned much about the cultural heritage of Italy at this period, owing to the restrictions placed upon my movements by the prevailing circumstances, but after the chaos that the Armistice brought about, I contrived to liberate myself, and it was then that I began to get to know Italy and the Italian people with a thoroughness impossible for the ordinary tourist.

For much of this time I was on my own, and so was forced to learn enough Italian to satisfy my daily needs. It is not a difficult tongue to learn to speak badly: the peasants among whom I moved for months had a vocabulary of little over five thousand words, and their questions and answers changed as little as did the events which prompted them.

To a great extent, moreover, Italians communicate with each other by signs, and these were easily mastered: the chopping gesture on the left forearm with the edge of the flat right hand which signifies "Run for it"; the hand, palm downwards, waggled rapidly midriff-high, which means "Are you hungry?"; the forefinger stuck into the middle of the cheek and rotated through ninety degrees to express one's delight at something delicious; all these, with the ritual gesture for casting the Evil Eye, and the formal one to counter it, made up a working "vocabulary" of words and hand-signals.

Two other factors assist the foreigner in Italy when he is trying to communicate with Italians. One is the rapidity of thought of the ordinary Italian, "Il uomo qualunque." He seems to know what you are trying to say. The other is the superb diction of most Italians, which gives a clear, hard edge to every word.

When they speak Italian, as opposed to their own dialect, they are a lesson to the world.

"This is one of the many narrow streets which wind through

So You're Going to Europe

ANY acquaintance who drops into our house immediately converts my gracious lady and her husband into crashing bores.

A former neighbor made that mistake this week. He had come over on a minor business matter. In the course of small talk, he said he was leaving in August for a three-month tour that would take him to Edinburgh, then to London, and after that to the Continent, which he would cover by rented car with his wife and two friends.

It was to be his first trip over there.

Let anyone reveal the intention to visit Europe and the revelation makes us act like well-shaken bottles of carbonated water. We effervesce.

Calmly and objectively we admit that we don't know everything about travelling in Europe. You'd never think it, though, from the advice, anecdote and reminiscence that pour from us. We can't be silenced once we start telling the prospective traveller what to do, what not to do, how to do it, what to see, what to avoid and the way to react to certain stimuli. Like race horses when the gate goes up, we're off and running.

When I get around to writing my monumental work on manners, morals and customs, I intend to devote a chapter to the hick who has been on a trip. My vocal treatment of the person about to go away on a journey is just a method of assembling material for that chapter.

"Did I ever tell you about the time we were in Paris . . ." says the gracious lady. When she runs out of breath I can pick up the story because we've told it so often. One of our problems nowadays is to find a victim who hasn't heard it.

It's a two-way operation of course.

"Now, in Offenburg . . ." I'll begin, and suddenly the theme will be taken over by the soprano.

"At Rome," we chorus, and then try to talk through each other in our eagerness to bring enlightenment.

Is It Harmful?

BIRD BANDING BATTLE

By ALAN WALKER

LONDON (CP) — A terrified kingfisher, snagged by the band on his leg, hangs upside down from a thorn tree and faces a lingering death.

This is one of many incidents condemned by a new organization against banding of birds, widely practised in Britain by amateur and professional naturalists.

Groups militantly guarding the rights of animals are old stuff here. The League Against Cruel Sports, the Hunt Saboteurs' Association and the Anti-vivisection and Animal Defence Society are widely known and widely sneered at.

"There are a lot of crank outfits," Josephine Parker, the new bird group's honorary secretary, said in an interview, "but we're not."

Nancy Price, 34-year-old former actress and nature writer, started the campaign against bird banding in her privately printed magazine, Pedlar's Pack, a journal devoted to animals and particularly to birds. In a speech Jan. 12, Miss Price spoke of birds as "creatures way above all forms of life."

Pedlar's Pack has about 2,000 subscribers, about 30 of whom are in Canada. These people make up nearly all the supporters of the anti-banding group.

A leaflet distributed with Pedlar's Pack is titled Freedom Fettered. It tells ghastly tales of unnamed banders who reputedly snatched nestlings, clamp heavy metal rings on their quivering legs and finally release them, after which, says Miss Price, the birds may become neurotic and probably will meet early death.

She argues that clumsy-naturalists may injure birds physically or mentally during banding; that small legs inevitably grow, making the bands pinch and possibly causing gangrene; that bands may catch on branches, causing the birds to starve to death; and that some bands are as heavy to a bird as a three-pound leg iron would be to a man, giving the bird great problems in flying straight.

Naturalists deny banding is harmful and say it is valuable in discovering birds' feeding habits, life spans and migration routes.

Miss Price insists that banding, besides

Stott

There are a few things on which we differ. "The coffee," I'll say and get no further, because the lady thinks that some of the coffee was good, if you like it that way. She also believes that the continental breakfast deserves less criticism than I offer.

"You get two buns," I explain, "one sweet, the other stale."

"Hard," she interrupts, "not stale. And this is the way to have breakfast; according to the book I read: You're foolish to spend a lot of money for a North American-style breakfast over there."

* * *

Usually the prospective traveller looks a little embarrassed by this example of family dissension, but the lady and I close ranks quickly. We're so anxious to tell all we know — information and misinformation — that we haven't time to squabble.

"They tell us," we chime together, "that the Lido is better than the Folies. We wouldn't know about the Lido. We didn't have reservations and couldn't get in. But if you go to the Folies, you'll find it less expensive on certain evenings and more dangerous to tip the waiter."

"The Catacombs? Yes. A little scary and no place to go if you have claustrophobia. We came out of the bright Italian sunlight on a hot Sunday and went down into them . . ."

"Money? Yes. Change your travellers cheques at the bank. The bank has a better idea of the exchange and it doesn't have to add a little to avoid going in the hole if the rate swings quickly. And take along a batch of American dollar bills. They're better known than ours and help you just about anywhere where you've run out of the currency of the country."

Then we talk about baths, bathrooms, continental frankness, European disregard for the refinements of the pulp industry and the different buttons, chains, levers and what-have-you installed to confuse unwary Canadians a long way from home.

Nobody going away gets much out of what we tell them, but it's lots of fun for us . . .

"You'll have a ball," we assure them. "You'll have a ball. Wish we were going with you. Mean to again, sometime. Have a swell time. We did."

A boring performance? Sure. But not for us.

Is It Harmful?

BIRD BANDING BATTLE

By ALAN WALKER

causing harm, is useless because "recovery rates for . . . small birds can be as low as two per thousand."

In her long lifetime Miss Price has criticized shooting birds for sport; unlimited use of insecticides which spoil birds' food; force-feeding of geese to enlarge their livers; producing the food deficiency pate de foie gras; and even mass breeding of chickens for food.

One group is definitely not impressed by Miss Price's writings and her Order of the British Empire. It is the British Trust for Ornithology, which organizes and controls nearly all bird banding in Britain. Its research officer, Robert Spencer, 41, said in an interview that Miss Price's organization is working with "a number of fundamental misconceptions."

As to the ring weight, Spencer said Miss Price's figures are wrong. "The bands weigh .005 grams, not .005 ounces as she says."

"And on top of that, the physiological makeup of a human is much different than that of a bird. Birds can carry heavier weights in proportion to their size than a man can, and birds are used to sudden changes in weight. An eight-ounce bird often eats a caterpillar for dinner that weighs one ounce."

Band size? Spencer said it was unlikely that a bird could be snagged no matter what the size of the band, and added: "The legs of young birds are not necessarily much smaller than those of the adult bird. As a matter of fact, young birds' legs are often a bit fatter than they will be when they grow up."

And recovery rates are "quite sufficient" for banding to serve its purpose.

The BTO trains its banders carefully and practically all of the 375,000 bandings in Britain last year were done under BTO auspices. Some of the disparity between the BTO position and Miss Price's may lie in the fact that private banding is legal, but Spencer said banders who are both independent and careless are few and far between.

"We have recommended legislation against these few people," Spencer said, "and Miss Price recommends the same legislation. I wish she had picked on the right people."

MAYBE THE BEATLES WERE RIGHT

HIS MISTAKE PAID OFF

Famed Composer Made It Big on Honky-Tonk

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Beatles are a big hit in their first movie—critics call them the new Marx Brothers—and no one is happier than movie composer David Rose.

Rose is a serious musician noted for his lush use of strings. His music is somewhat removed from that of the Beatles.

Until the Beatles' reviews came out, Rose thought maybe he had approached music from the wrong direction.

"I went up to my teen-age daughter's room the other day," he says. "The walls were plastered with pictures of the Beatles."

"There were no pictures of me. Worse, there were none of my albums in her record collection. What does a father do in a situation like that?

"I'm glad the Beatles are successful as movie stars. Maybe now, they'll get out of the music business."

Oddly, Rose's biggest hit was an out-of-character number as noisy as the Beatles.

"When MGM made Sweet Bird of Youth, with Paul Newman and Geraldine Page a few years ago, the song Ebb Tide was used as background music," he said.

EXPECTED HIT

"MGM records asked me to record it, which I did. It was expected to be a hit. It wasn't, but the other side of the record is my all-time big seller—The Stripper."

How that came about is one of those show business mistakes that boomerang into big money.

"Maybe the Beatles have the right idea after all."

THESE BEATLES won't be thrilling thousands of teen-agers at Vancouver's Empire Stadium Aug. 22—they come from wax museum. Excited about Vancouver Island Coach Lines

ROME WAS NEVER LIKE THIS. Or was it? Well maybe only in the minds of lyricist-composer Stephen Sondheim and authors Bert Shevlev and Larry Gelbert who wrote the hit musical, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." In this scene from the mad farce that comes to Vancouver Aug. 3 for a week, Justine Johnston, Paul Hartman and Arnold Stang clown their way through one of the important numbers.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

RECORD PROFITS IN AUTOMOTIVES

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The stretch of the United States business upturn was underscored this week by a stream of glowing corporate profits reports.

The second quarter was a period of record earnings for many corporations.

This was particularly true in the booming automobile industry, where General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. came out with highest-ever profits for the three months and six months ended June 30.

Some of the credit for the gains was attributed to the federal income tax cut effective in February.

General Motors earned $602,000, equal to $2.11 a share, in the second quarter against $464,000,000, or $1.62 a share, a year earlier.

BOOM TO CONTINUE

Economists for the Bank of America predicted the boom, already more than 41 months old, would continue at least through the middle of 1965.

The changeover to 1965 cut into the automobile industry's production this week. Cadillac, Rambler, Chevrolet and Chrysler shut down some plants. Output dwindled to an estimated 113,700 passenger cars from 154,999 last week.

Demand for new cars continued high with Chrysler and Ford reporting higher daily selling rates in the middle 10 days of July than a year earlier.

Tax Yield Climbing Sharply

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Smallwood said Friday development of Labrador's Hamilton Falls' power potential, and its delivery to the New England states through the Atlantic provinces, would "re-adjust the economic balance in Canada."

He said in a telephone interview the availability of low-cost electricity in the Atlantic provinces would give the areas "far, far greater economic strength in the whole Canadian economy."

Present plans, he said, call for transmission of the power by land towers and submarine cables. The full potential of the Hamilton Falls' power project has been estimated at nine million horsepower.

"This is a much bigger project than the one that was talked of — taking it through Quebec," said Premier Smallwood.

He said the proposed Quebec project would have developed only four million horsepower.

Mr. Smallwood said a British consulting firm, making a study of the economic feasibility of the project, "has promised a report not later than the first of October, and they have said they would try to let us have it even earlier than that."

STARTING NEXT YEAR

It would certainly be too late in this present year for actual construction work to commence, but in the meanwhile, Brinco the British Newfoundland Corporation is continuing certain engineering works, studies and preparations so that when the work season opens next year, they can commence with a bang."

The British firm retained to study the project presented a preliminary report to the government.

An outline of how the transmission system would operate has been devised with the distributing authority having been delegated to Canadian Javelin. Premier Smallwood sees 2,000,000 horsepower unloaded in The Maritimes and the remainder sold to the New England states.

The transmission system would cost about $300 million and would stretch nearly 4,000 miles.

Plant Owner Blames Union for Closure

VANCOUVER (CP) — The manager of a strike-bound steel container manufacturing plant in nearby North Surrey said Friday the company is going out of business.

Gregory Brady of Vulcan Containers (Canada) Limited, said the plant is being closed because the company cannot meet the wage demands of its employees.

More than half of Vulcan's 40 employees are members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC). They went on strike last June 10 to back demands for a wage boost in a first contract with Vulcan, which has its head office in Toronto.

ST. RATE ASKED

The union wanted to raise the present base rate of $1.16 an hour to more than $2. hourly. The company's final offer was for a 45-cent hourly boost spread over three years.

Mr. Brady said the decision to sell the plant came after Vulcan President Norman G. Bernecker of Toronto met with union negotiators earlier this week.

"We will be out within the next 60 days," he said. "Our president has an obligation to the stockholders and he cannot leave the plant sitting idle."

Pen Baskin, senior representative for B.C. for the steelworkers, said Vulcan can do what

Trans World Fights Hughes

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines says it has gone to a federal appeals court in an effort to block Hughes Tool Co. from regaining control of the airline.

TWA is trying to upset a Civil Aeronautics Board ruling this month that would allow Hughes to buy $32,600,000 in TWA notes provided Hughes divests itself of Northeast Airlines. The board said it would not allow Hughes to control TWA and Northeast at the same time.

Coal Yield Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Production of coal in Canada jumped 24.5 per cent in June to 836,520 tons from 671,750 tons a year earlier, the bureau of statistics reported Friday.

Pen Baskin, senior representative for B.C. for the steelworkers, said Vulcan can do what

WEBB AND KNAPP EMPIRE SHAKING?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Zeckendorf Hotels Corp., one of many subsidiaries of giant Webb and Knapp, Inc., Thursday asked court protection under bankruptcy laws while it pays off debts.

Zackendorf operates, but does not own, the Taft Hotel in Manhattan.

This move was the latest of several tremors to shake the Webb and Knapp real estate empire in recent years.

William Zeckendorf Sr., the rotund, flamboyant entrepreneur who built his continental straddling operation from scratch, says the hotel corp. filing has "no effect on the parent company whatsoever." Zeckendorf has been a leading figure in downtown Montreal development.

COULDN'T SETTLE

Earlier this year, Zeckendorf Hotels was removed as operator of the Drake Hotel and a company officer said Thursday's action came because the subsidiary couldn't settle out-of-court with suppliers of the Drake.

Webb and Knapp has lost money heavily in recent years, $19,625,151 in 1962 and $32,320,954 last year, largely because hotel, apartment house and office-space business did not live up to expectations.

Also, some large projects either fell short or were delayed.

RAYONIER TO BUILD SMALL-LOG CHIP MILL

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rayonier Canada (B.C.) Ltd. today announced it will build a $750,000 small-log chip mill at its Port Alice pulp mill on Vancouver Island.

A statement said Rayonier plans a full-scale move into recovery of small logs from previously logged-over areas where the wood was formerly burned or left to rot.

It expected to recover about 40,000,000 board feet of the small logs a year to keep the chip mill, scheduled to go into operation in mid-1965, working on a one-shift basis.

The company said the small wood program will increase its wood utilization from its tree farm licence on northern Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlotte Islands on the north coast.

Cost of salvage logging equipment to feed the chip plant, which will handle about 32,000,000 board feet a year, will reach a total of $1,000,000 over two years.

The company said it is planning a similar operation for its plant at Woodfibre, about 25 miles north of Vancouver on Howe Sound.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Hedges of box, laurel, privet, cut the lavender spikes for all need trimming. New hedges need frequent watering to get well established before fall.

Climbing roses should have old blooms cut off, and old, wornout branches completely removed now. Ramblers must be pruned after flowering, by removing all shoots which have bloomed.

Zonal geraniums wanted for winter flowers indoors need all flower buds removed until Sept. 1. Tops may be nipped out and used as cuttings.

Ventilate the greenhouse freely for general run of plants. Some orchids require close humid atmosphere.

Gather seed of meconopsis (the blue-poppy), alpine pinks and spring gentians. Sow at once for best results.

Sow seed of flowers of Spring cabbage.

Colchicums and autumn flowering crocuses planted now will be of interest in late August and September.

Insulation Easy Job

Adding insulation under a roof or over a ceiling is a popular do-it-yourself project. A man and wife team can handle insulation with little effort.

All you need in the way of tools are a staple gun, a sharp knife and a straight edge.

Insulation should be cut to fit snugly, leaving a flange of vapor barrier to be stapled to the studs or rafters. Wedge the batt or blanket in tightly with the vapor barrier toward the indoor side—not against the outside.

Staples should be no more than six inches apart.

Bathtub Brackets Solve Problem

A critical and widespread problem with bathtubs is the unsightly crack that gradually develops at the joint between the bottom of the tub and the floor.

It can be avoided if the tub is securely mounted and this in turn normally requires special L-bracket supports under the tub (which are then bolted to the wall). They hold a tub firmly in place.

They are not usually provided, so you must ask for them, or for comparable support.

Compact Design Evolved By 3-Year Experiments

This house, by architect S. A. Gitterman of Ottawa, was developed for the National House Builders Association of Canada and was evolved from experimental houses sponsored by this Association and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation during the past three years.

Efficient planning has provided maximum use of space. The design of the living room lends itself to convenient furniture arrangement and the bay-window area in the kitchen allows space for dining. The master bedroom is a good size and has ample closet space.

In the basementless version, the linen closet is converted to a furnace room.

The house should be oriented with the front door facing south to adapt to various sitting requirements, a variation of this design is available in which the house is turned so that the front door and carport face the side of the lot.

The floor area is 1,008 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 36 feet by 28 feet.

Working drawings for this house, known as Design 2317, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Well Designed Divider Serves Four Purposes

By PAULINE GRAVES

Here's a furniture piece that faces three different directions and functions in three different ways, yet is marvelously simple in design. A box-like cabinet sits on an L-shape slab, its back to the living room, open shelves facing the entry.

becoming the sofa's back against which pillows can rest.

Open shelves on the entry side have a welcoming effect for the visitor, and keep books handy. Note that these shelves were planned with certain books in mind, with tall books dominating the bottom row, and a three-inch space above reserved for paperbacks stacked horizontally.

It is almost like a one-man band in that this one unit is part of the sofa, is a room divider, an end table and a bookshelf, and it occupies a minimum of floor space. The basis for such a structure could well be a slab door, with the sofa inset cut out, and the remaining L-shape mounted on legs.

The bench juts into the room from the wall five feet, and it is three feet wide across the end. The cabinet, set back six inches from the edge, is twelve inches deep, stands eighteen inches high, and is thirty-six inches wide, leaving a two-foot space at the end.

Made of Philippine mahogany, the unit has a natural wood finish which emphasizes the ribbon-like grain.

Bench cabinet combination makes attractive entrance, functions as sofa back, end table.

CHOOSING COLORS

The colors chosen for the home play an important role. Wisely used colors can conceal defects, emphasize important points, and make rooms seem larger or smaller, as cool or as warm as wished. Correctly chosen, colors will do just about anything the home owner would like them to do.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Sweet Pea Development Covers Two Centuries

Over 250 years ago the monk Cupani sent seeds of a new plant from Sicily to a friend in England.

The plant proved to be a rather weedy, annual with blooms of crimson to purplish crimson, unattractive but deliciously fragrant.

Since the flowers were similar to those of the garden pea it became generally known as the Sweet Pea and many years passed before it found a place in a seedsman's catalog.

It was regarded as an other tall annual suitable for the back of the flower border until under good cultivation, better forms and new colors began to appear.

Florists of Jack the mid-19th century recognized grace in the Sweet Pea and began a study of its variations. Bi-colors and clear self colors were soon in evidence, but the flowers remained small and the stems too short for decorative purposes.

By the end of the last century several persons were probing the possibilities of this plant, with Henry Eckford a little ahead of them all.

Eckford, after long and careful work, raised a new race of giant Sweet Peas known as "grandiflora." The color range included almost all colors represented in many shades, and most important was the retention of the characteristic perfume.

Little further improvement was considered possible and in 1900 an exhibition and conference was held at the Crystal Palace, London, to mark the bi-centenary of its introduction.

Great as this event was, it was still only the beginning, for rumors were soon circulating that a new and startling break existed.

FRILLED BLOSSOM
It was in the gardens of Earl Spencer under the care of Silas Cole as head gardener that a new pink, large, flounced and frilled blossom made its appearance.

This became the famous "Countess Spencer," although two other raisers had the same break but their blossoms were inferior to Cole's.

Progress was slow for Countess Spencer failed to breed true, but the Spencer strain has long been the popular garden Sweet Pea and is still available today.

The next break of any note was the comparatively recent introduction of the Cuthbertson strain, to be followed by Zvolanek's multifloras with from five to six flowers on a long strong stem.

Reports of five blossoms to a stem have been common; six not quite so frequent, and a few with seven and eight.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. I have a peony which does not open its flowers, also asters which have leaves curl up and dry, and lilac bushes lost most of their flowers the same way. What is the cause? Mrs. W. J. Cobble Hill, B.C.

Without seeing your garden and the condition of any other plants which might be growing there, it sounds as though the general fertility of the soil is quite low. Also, if your soil is sandy and well drained your plants may be suffering from drought.

You do not say whether the asters are annual or the perennial type. If the latter, lift the clumps, and replant only the lively young shoots with roots from the outer edges. Incorporate plenty of

DOUG PEDEN, Sports Editor

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Late last spring when Toronto Maple Leafs were engaged in mortal combat for the priceless Stanley Cup (worth $50) the housemother approach of George "Punch" Imlach was widely debated.

Observers cringed as the general manager-coach put his Leafs through practices more prolonged and bloodthirsty than Armageddon. Or as a movie columnist called it, "Irma Geddon." Certainly the Leaf drills were more invigorating than their contests with Detroit Red Wings.

If Detroit hadn't left them in stitches, it seemed possible that Imlach would.

Across the border, the Red Wings lolled between games at a Toledo race track, studying fillies and mares and horses. Race tracks give most people a choked-up feeling, but Sid Abel didn't fret.

"Keep the boys relaxed," said the Detroit leader.

Back in Toronto Mr. Imlach was informed of the Red Wings' gentle ways. "Pshaw!" he snorted, or something like that.

"When this is over, that's the time to relax."

Ultimately slavery triumphed over sloth. Imlach's Leafs, battered and frazzled, excused Detroit, fresh and gay, from cup competition.

For the third consecutive year, employing a regimen that Caesar might have considered soft, Imlach drove his serfs to the pinnacle of their profession, the world championship.

Guys Who Goof Get Message Clearly

Six years ago the Leafs looked like something taken from the West Coast water after five days. They finished sixth under Billy Reay, a travelled gentleman, always coarse and usually loud.

Early in the 1958-59 campaign Reay went the way of all coaching flesh in Toronto, where losers are absorbed.

Leafs arrived fourth that year under Imlach's inspiration and their perspiration. Subsequently they were second, second, second, first, and, last year, third. There is no longer a good market for drying towels in Toronto.

What kind of a Moses are you, Mr. Imlach?

Do you give the troops the rah rah for dear old Woonsocket Tech jazz? Or do you take them aside quietly and discuss their sins?

"Let's take a game night," Imlach said, loosening his tie. "I get to the dressing room at 7. Sometimes I'm ahead of the players, sometimes not."

"I walk in, hang up my coat . . . and walk out."

"Five minutes before they go out to loosen up, I knock—for luck—and come in. I talk about past mistakes first and then I work on their confidence. Never the other way 'round."

"After the warm-up I don't see them until three, maybe four minutes before game time. I go over strategy. We have a plan but you have to keep repeating, repeating."

"At the end of each period, I have a little room where I go myself. Or else I watch the scoring plays on television. I used to have a catwalk but they took it away from me."

Travelled Often, Sometimes Loudly

The intermission is for the players to rest, to get their energy back. If they have played hard, they wouldn't listen if I went at them right away.

"I take the last two minutes to tell them their mistakes and to encourage them. I speak to them as a unit, not as individuals. The guys who have been goofing get the message."

"I haven't gone into the dressing room right after a period 10 times in six years."

"When I have," Imlach said, "they knew I had something to say. And they all heard it because I didn't whisper."

What sir, do you look for with those baby blue eyes during the game? An individual? A line? The other team?

Their weaknesses and our mistakes," Imlach said.

"Mr. Smythe—Senior—claims I can watch the whole picture." Technically this asset is known as peripheral vision. To people in the Garden greens, it's plain good eyesight.

He exposed a fawcett of his astuteness in discussing Leonard "Red" Kelly, the distinguished parliamentarian on loan to the Leafs from the federal government. Kelly was 37 on July 9.

Before the final game of the Stanley Cup, Kelly was assigned to bed with a knee wrap about 45 cents. Because his pride was greater than the pain, Kelly had the soup bone frozen and played with his accustomed distinction.

Knees heal with time but time slows men. Kelly also faced the problem of commuting between Ottawa and Toronto. He spent something like $9,700 helping Air Canada to show a profit last year.

Pleasures of Baatan Death March

Will Kelly be back?

"I have no reason to believe he won't," Imlach said. "He hasn't told me he wouldn't."

"Neither has Dickie Moore told me he wouldn't report."

Winston Richard Moore, at 33 a novice compared with some of Imlach's ancients, was drafted from Montreal. Seven years ago he was the leading scorer in the NHL but he creaks in the knees and last year he didn't play at all.

"At training camp," Imlach was saying, "I'll watch Kelly for only one reason. To see if he can get to the net. He knows what to do when he gets there, but I have to find out if he can get there. Hell, I can beat Bower if I'm right in front of him. But I can't get there."

Hal Laycock, the Portland scoutmaster, insists the Leafs' training camp has all the pleasures of the death march at Baatan in the Second World Holocaust.

"Punch punishes them," Laycock said. "Once at Peterborough I saw Imlach work Johnny Bower so hard I almost cried for him."

"That's the secret, I guess. Punch gets those old guys in better shape than they've ever been."

Perhaps, coach, you will take it easier on the chaps now that you have won the Stanley spitoon three years running?

"What the indecent unctuous are you talking about?" Imlach demanded.

"The price of success" is hard work. That's how I operate. The ONLY way I operate. That speaks for everything."

Orioles Sweep Twin Bill; Yanks Split With Tigers

UP International

In Baltimore, happiness is two fuzzy-cheeked right-handers and a pint-size Rocky Colavito.

And together they're convincing even stolid Hank Bauer that his Baltimore Orioles may be a team of destiny.

What impressed Bauer isn't simply 19-year-old Wally Bunker's 11 victories or rookie Dave Vineyard's two-hitter in his second major League start.

Even the record-breaking pinch hitting of Bob Johnson, who bears a remarkable facial resemblance to Rocky Colavito of the Athletics, wouldn't stir manager Bauer's optimism except that none of the three figured in the Orioles' '64 plans as recently as May.

Yet all three players were chiefly responsible for the Orioles' 2-1 and 7-2 doubleheader victory Friday night over the Washington Senators which restored Baltimore to first place by one game over the Yankees in the American League pennant scramble.

Vineyard, a 23-year-old hurler with 10-4 credentials from Rochester in the International League, had a no-hitter going into the seventh inning before Chuck Hinton walked and Mike Brunley and Don Lock doubled. Luis Aparicio, Boog Powell and Sam Bowens supported Vineyard with home runs in the nightcap and the Senators contributed two costly errors.

Bunker registered his sixth complete game and fifth consecutive victory, yielding only five hits in the opener. He was locked in a 1-1 duel with Senators' rookie Buster Narum until the ninth when Johnson, who is 13 for 23 as a pinchhitter, punched a run-scoring single after Charlie Lau had doubled.

The Yankees settled for a split with the Detroit Tigers, losing 10-5 in the first game of their doubleheader then winning 6-1.

Cleveland stopped Boston 6-1. Kansas City nipped Los Angeles 1-0 and Minnesota broke an eight-

The competition, which starts with time trials at 7:30, is decided on overall points amassed in all races, including two main events.

Stable Scores TKO Triumph

NEW YORK (AP) — Jose Stable, second-ranked welter-weight contender from Oriente, Cuba, scored an eighth round technical knockout over Gabe Terronez of Fresno, Calif., Friday night in a scheduled 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Stable, who weighed 149½, stopped Terronez, 147½, at 2:19 of the eighth.

The end came after Stable landed a left hook to Terronez' jaw. Terronez was helpless on his feet. He did not even attempt to raise his arms.

With Harold Cliff looking after the fanning, Optimists breezed to a 13-1 decision over Duncan in the first game at Royal Athletic Park Friday. Cliff was the master with a three-hit stint.

The Cosmos tripped Victoria 8-3 as Ted Clark and Rich Womeld teamed up for a one-hit display.

The double-knockout affair, first of its kind staged anywhere, continues today. There's semi-final action at 7 tonight, and the final is set for Sunday.

Sunday's final is set for 2 p.m. If sudden-death playoff is required, it will be held at 3:30.

What's a Poor Spanish Girl to Do?

By MARGE GILROY
International travellers stopping at or passing through Victoria's new air terminal have reason to be impressed with the customs and immigration room.

Not only is the new customs room three times the size of the old quarters, but washroom facilities and a waiting area have been provided for the traveller crossing the Canadian border from foreign countries.

FIGURES RISE

And no longer does the baggage come crashing down a chute. Instead it now rolls along a 40-foot conveyor belt.
Passengers can pick up their baggage and proceed to one of two inspection counters without being in danger of losing life or limb.

An immigration official said it was only natural that the biggest improvement would be in this area, since international travel figures at the airport here have been steadily increasing since 1948.

Airport officials have done everything possible to accommodate the French and English-speaking passengers of North America and the Spanish-speaking males from South America.

Only the Spanish-speaking female was forgotten.

On the ladies' washrooms it says in bold letters, Women, Dames and Senores. If senoras means women and senores is gentlemen, what's a poor
Spanish woman to do?

But the Mexican or South American traveller will still feel at home with the blue mosaic walls, terrazzo floors and colorful mural in the main waiting room.

Still to be completed is the second mural by local artist
John Ritchie of Land's End Road.

While the passenger's baggage is being whisked through swinging doors along another conveyor belt, friends and relatives can wait to greet the traveller from a roofed-in style patio, or an observation deck.

OFFICES ABOVE

The deck is open to all, provided they have a dime to make the turnstile turn.

Inside a modern coffee shop and ample sitting space will shorten any waiting period.

The new $800,000 air terminal gives a new first look to Victoria but it has also given the Department of Transport employees a new look at things.

Situated on the second storey, above the airport offices, are bright and spacious meteorological and telecommunications offices. They previously had one office in an old hangar. Now they overlook the whole airfield.

When installations are completed in the new tower, the old temporary setup, in service since the late 1940s, will be a thing of the past.

The doors to the new airport opened to the public on Tuesday and visitors should take advantage of making a visit early, while parking is free.
There is word about that parking meters are on their way in.

REALLY KRONBORG

Elsinore Still Star By Any Other Name

MONTREAL — Thousands of Canadian tourists will be one up on William Shakespeare during this 400th anniversary year of the Bard's birth.

They will be visiting Kronborg Castle—the Elsinore of Shakespeare's "Hamlet," which Shakespeare himself never saw.

Kronborg controls the entrance to Copenhagen Sound, just 45 minutes' ride from the centre of the Danish capital. Normally a popular stop on the tourist route, it is enjoying record crowds this year because of its association with the playwright.

According to Scandinavian Airlines System (SAS), thousands of Canadian tourists will spend at least a couple of hours this year clambering over its bastions and visiting the splendid Renaissance structure.

The present castle itself is contemporaneous with Shakespeare, having been built between 1574 and 1583.

The Hamlet story, however,

LONDON RUNS OUT OF ROAD

(The Washington Post)

LONDON—People here are musing over the implications of a report proving conclusively what most commuters already knew—that London has run out of road.

A $1.8 million traffic survey published by the London County Council shows that arterial streets have very little reserve capacity. Worst jams occur during Friday evening rush hours when the number of vehicles rises only 3 or 4 per cent above other weekdays as many Londoners head for the country.

All this does not mean that Peking is crowded with foreigners in comparison with most other capitals. They are just more congregated. In fact, there are probably fewer than 500 visitors here at any one time, although this is about 10 times the figure of a couple of years ago.

IMPROVE ENGLISH

The barman, room-boys and waiters spend much of their spare time brushing up their English, which has all but replaced Russian as the most common foreign language spoken in Peking.

All this does not mean that Peking is crowded with foreigners in comparison with most other capitals. They are just more congregated. In fact, there are probably fewer than 500 visitors here at any one time, although this is about 10 times the figure of a couple of years ago.

13 Nations Join Space Network Plan

WASHINGTON (CP)—A global space communications network took a step nearer to reality Friday when representatives of 13 countries and the Vatican installed a agreement covering their participation.

The agreements still require ratification by the governments of the 13 countries, including Canada, before formal enactment, scheduled for Aug. 19.

Five other countries plan to join the pact almost at once, and provision was made for any and all other members of the 122-country International Telecommunications Union to join the unique private-government venture. That includes virtually every country except Communist China and North Korea.

However membership will not be a requirement for leasing facilities when the $200,000,000 satellite system goes into operation, possibly late in 1967.

TO MANAGE IT
Communications Satellite Corporation, a privately owned United States firm commonly known as Comsat, will manage the system. Policy will be set by a 12-member international committee representing all the investors.

Hammered out in four days of meetings here this week was agreement on voting powers in the committee, which had delayed earlier ratification.

In addition, Canada has said it is prepared to invest up to $7,500,000 for shares in the global venture.

In the 12-man governing committee, Comsat will have 61 of the 100 votes initially, because it will retain 61 per cent of the ownership. Canada will have 3.5 per cent, an investment of $7,000,000 if the $200,000,000 investment total remains unchanged.

Investment in the space network is based on a quota formula of present and projected long distance telephone traffic. This has sharply curtailed the participation allowed some countries. Britain, for example, had offered to take up 20 per cent of the total investment, but under the formula was restricted to 8.15 per cent. France was held to 6.1 per cent.

SOME SHARES TINY
Some participants have tiny investment shares, ranging down to 0.05 per cent—$100,000—for the Vatican. The Vatican joined the 18 original owners Friday.

Gilles Sicotte of the department of transport, Ottawa, initiated for Canada the agreement on principles between governments. A second agreement, on technical details, was initiated by D. F. Bowe, president of Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation, a Crown corporation which is handling the technical aspects of Canada's participation.

COTC is building a $5,000,000 ground station at Mill Village, N.S., 80 miles southwest of Halifax. It is to go into experimental use by the fall of next year and features facilities for receiving and sending telephone, telegraph, television, facsimile and high-speed-data transmission.

Driver Denies Previous Conviction

A man whom police say is a second offender was convicted Friday in city court of impaired driving.

Bruce Malcolm MacDonald, 2844 Scott, did not admit he was previously convicted and so was not sentenced on the charge heard Friday.

The case was remanded to Monday when the Crown will try to produce proof that MacDonald was convicted before on a similar charge.

MacDonald was found guilty Friday of driving while impaired on Kingston Street July 6. Police followed him after his car was seen weaving across the road.

Injunction Halts Pickets

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—The west coast operation of Canadian Forest Products obtained an injunction Friday that prohibits picketing of its British Columbia branches by unionists from Alberta.

The action followed the appearance of pickets at the company's Pacific veneer plant here and its logging operation at Harrison Hot Springs, 60 miles to the east.

The pickets, identified by New Westminster union members as members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) from Grand Prairie, Alta., also set up a picket line at an affiliated mill at Chetwynd, B.C., to the north.

However, since the Chetwynd operation is only an affiliate, the injunction was not valid there.

'B.C. Gas Prices Indicate Industry Is Competitive'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four United States economists have called the gasoline industry in B.C. "dynamic" and "competitive".

The economists, members of the Stanford University Research Institute, Friday presented a 400-page brief and their findings on the gasoline market in B.C. to the Royal Commission on Gasoline Prices sitting here.

The independent brief, commissioned by Imperial Oil Limited, concluded that the behavior of gasoline prices and the gasoline market in B.C. is indicative of competition between oil companies.

SRI economist Dr. Lee Preston told the commission that both perfect competition and perfect monopoly are mainly abstract concepts in economic textbooks.

"Most of the real world is competitive somewhere between these two extremes, and investigation of this area is not worthwhile unless done by experts, since there are so many factors involved and so many ways of analysing and comparing data," he said.

Dr. Preston said there is no evidence of predatory price behavior in B.C.'s major oil companies because predatory pricing requires "vicious" price cuts designed to drive competitors out and to keep them out.

"Even though the major oil companies have narrowed their prices to within one cent of discount outlets, the independent outlets have not lost their share of the market and have not been driven out of it," he said.

"The market is still dynamic, the independents are still competing, as are the majors."

Dr. Preston also noted it is easy to get into the gas retailing business, and that this also makes it highly competitive.

Commission Counsel H. B.

King questioned the SRI group on some alternative pricing system for gasoline, proposed earlier by Cyril Shelford, Social Credit MLA for Omineca, but the economists rejected all of them as being unworkable without some form of policing.

They said policing would lead to undesirable results for the gasoline customer.

Rolling Stones Routed By Rioters

BLACKPOOL, Eng.—The Rolling Stones, a group of beat musicians, fled from a dance hall stage Friday night as youthful rioters wrecked their instruments and battled police called to quell the disturbance.

The outbreak flared when one of the long-haired group aimed a kick at a youth who tried to clamber onto the stage.

The cheers of 7,000 dancers turned to boos and the musicians fled as irate 'teen-agers swarmed on stage.

Police who raced into Empress Hall with truncheons were pelted with pieces of furniture and damaged equipment.

Two policemen and about 30 dancers were injured. Three youths were arrested.

$30,000 PRICE TAG

Reds Offer to Sell New Artificial Arm

MONTREAL (CP)—The Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal appealed Friday for $30,000 to buy Canadian rights to a bio-electric artificial arm designed by Russian scientists.

The institute, calling the invention revolutionary, said it has the facilities and personnel to construct, improve and put the arm to practical use.

What is needed is $30,000, the price the Russians have put on Canadian rights. Once in production, it will cost an amputee about $300.

Dr. Gingras said he and three associates had just returned from a visit to London and Moscow to examine the new artificial limb.

"This is the first time that a simplified bio-electric arm has been used in an everyday routine with patients," he said, explaining that his medical team could develop such an arm on their own only after much time and effort.

He said the limb has the potential for several different motions and actions while present artificial limbs are awkward and produce only one or two basic movements. The Russian limb is driven by a small motor based in the hand and control is maintained by electric signals picked up by electrodes in contact with arm and neck muscles.

HOW'S THIS LOOK? six-year-old Kenneth Black asks little Sheila Smith. It was piping and dancing the whole day through at Macdonald Park today as the 27th annual Highland Games were held.

This I'm glad to hear, and certainly our homespun problem doesn't approach that experienced in states including California, where campers have been harassed by motorcycle-mounted goon brigades. (Not you guys in the reptile clubs, so don't start climbing down my throat!)

Some United States park systems do their own policing, and in national parks, each superintendent is empowered not only to arrest but to prosecute and convict. Sentences, I'm told, are no wrist-slap, either.

That last is a thought for British Columbians, and with it the suggestion that the towns whose baddies are whipping out by car at night to rob campers had best open their eyes to a situation which is very much on their doorstep.

In certain parks, it has switched its fee-collecting rounds from daytime to late evening, and is keeping an officer on duty until the small hours. Sproat Lake is one of this number.

At locations which I suggest you check before dark sets in, government telephones are being installed.

More intensive police patrolling has been promised by the RCMP, and a proposal is being weighed whereby Civil Defence, an instrument of demonstrated usefulness in British Columbia, may help out through its RCMP-trained auxiliary police.

Under this plan, one RCMP and one civil defence auxiliary policeman would work together as a patrol team in some parks.

Sights are also to be posted offering a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of park trouble-makers.

Locked gates and curfews aren't being contemplated.

No One Noticed the Heat With Scottish on Stage

By JIM BIGSBY

The skirt of bagpipes coiled along MacDonald Park today as the 27th annual Highland Games danced and piped along.

It was sunny and hot when the crowd assembled before 9 this morning and it got hotter as the day wore on, but no one seemed to notice.

All eyes were on the field.

On the raised central platform more than 200 young dancers took their turns.

Puffing away behind the platform two sunglasses-wearing pipers were taking turns piping the more than 150 pieces during the day.

"It's a long day," said Angus Stanfield as he let James Troy take the next piece.

KIND OF BORESOME'

"Gets kind of boresome after a while," muttered Troy as he prepared for yet another Highland fling.

At the south and north ends of the field competition pipers stood in the shade, practising for their turn before the judges.

Kilted dancing judge, Stewart Smith from San Francisco, quizzed into the sun from beneath a black and red baseball cap.

For campers, a word from the branch. If you run into hoodlum trouble, seize any chance the circumstances allow to note even fragmentary details of personal appearance, number and sex of pack, peculiarities of voice, type of transport, and license number complete or partial.

The police know who the problems cases in their districts are, and what you can tell them might land some under-brained son-of-a-moron in a cage.

The parks branch, too, would appreciate a complete and accurate report of any such incidents.

Topics of the Day

Sunday is the last day for St. Joseph's Hospital visitors to see the reception entrance in its present condition.

Starting Monday walls will be pushed out to allow the emergency department to expand in connection with a hospital development program. A new reception rotunda will be built.

Two Victoria firms shared $140,318 in defence contracts awarded during the latter half of June.

Economy Steam Laundry Ltd. was given $28,750 for laundry services ending next May 31, and Kingham-Gillespie Coal Co. Ltd. gets $111,568 for coal during the same period.

Pioneers To Decide On Museum

The newly appointed president of the Saanich Pioneer Society has announced he will call a meeting in August to decide "once and for all" whether members are for or against expanding the pioneer museum at the Saanichon fair grounds.

Harold C. Young of Central Saanich Road replaced Willard Michell, East Saanich Road farmer, who resigned as president of the society Monday when members refused to back up museum expansion plans which he said they had previously endorsed.

The plans called for a fireproof pioneer museum and a shelter for old farm machinery presently stored on Mr. Michell's farm.

The pioneer relics are presently housed in a log cabin on the fair grounds.

Mr. Young said he didn't want to become involved in the controversy "but I can see how the society can finance a larger museum like the one being established by the Cowichan Valley Logging Society in Duncan."

He said he would call a meeting to decide the issue probably around the third week in August.

A sailor who stole two hubcaps from a parked car this morning was fined $100 in city police court today for theft.

Richard Seward, 21, of HMCS Naden, told the court he took them for a friend who had two hubcaps stolen from his car a few days before.

Police said he was caught with the hubcaps after a short chase. He had taken them from a car on Bastion Street about 2:30 a.m.

Lieutenant - Governor George Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes leave next week for a three-day visit in the Okanagan.

They will be the guests of Cmdr. and Mrs. J. Bruce Smith at Okanagan Mission near Kelowna on Tuesday.

On Wednesday they will give a garden party at the Smiths' Summergrove farm. Thursday they will attend a dinner to be given by Mayor Maurice Flinerty of Penticton, and then attend the Theatre Under the Penticton Skies.

Last day for student applications for first year university Aug. 15.

Registration is planned for Sept. 15 to Sept. 18 at the Gordon Head Campus, a University of Victoria spokesman said today.

He said the majority of applications from students wishing to enter university are expected next week after the results of the Grade 12 exams are out.

Eric Horwood and Walter Allan teamed to win local play of a nation-wide charity bridge game held here Friday.

All players at the 13 tables were given pre-dealt hands which had been analyzed by experts playing at the same time at the American Contract Bridge League's championships in Toronto.

Other winners were Ethel Cleworth and Hilda Price, second; Bill Brown-Cave and Les Isaacson, third; Harry Rolls and Lillian Lebott, and Eric Goodwin and Bud Waddington, fourth place tie, and Velma Acres and Jim Duprau, sixth.

VMD Delivers Latest Ferry On Aug. 4

Victoria Machinery Depot will deliver the Queen of New Westminster to the B.C. Ferry Authority Aug. 4 and keels will be laid soon for two more vessels, president Harold Husband announced today.

The Queen of New Westminster is now undergoing final acceptance trials.

Mr. Husband said the keel for the 340-foot Queen of Burnaby will be laid in mid-August. Work has already started in the machine shop on fabrication of hull sections for the $4 million vessel.

The Ferry Authority will use the Burnaby, a sister ship of the Queens of Nanaimo and New Westminster, on its Gulf Islands service.

RUPERT SCHEDULED

Keel for the Queen of Prince Rupert, new type of ocean-going vessel for the Ferry Authority, will be laid in mid-November.

Fabrication will start in October for the 350-foot, $6 million ferry which will ply the Authority's projected Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert run.

Meanwhile, VMD has been delivering an average of one barge per week for the past five weeks.

Friday evening a $250,000, 200-foot gravel barge was launched for Ocean Cement and Evans, Coleman and Evans. Its conveyor system is yet to be installed.

Reds Put New Words To Old Atheist Tunes

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russian re-vivalists are putting religious words to "good old atheist" tunes to attract Soviet youth to their services, the Communist newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda complained.

"The God Almighty bestowed no musical talent on members of the Pentecostal sect," it said. "That's why they have to glorify their God with the tunes borrowed from the atheists."

The newspaper said the Christians have taken the tune of the Russian popular song "The Blue Earth Is Going Around" and sing it as "the terrible sin is going around."

It said a Pentecostal leader named Viktor Garbutov, who "knows too well that young folk like to sing ad dance," has used popular tunes, Western songs, folk songs, and even mambos to "introduce fresh air to somehow revive prayer meetings."

"Nowadays young members of religious sects do not like the endless, tearful hymns of their senior brothers and sisters," the newspaper said. "To keep youth in the sect and to attract new members, the leaders of the Christian herd are doing their best."

Breathing

We have explained that the system of hatha yoga is based on breathing, that one of its main objectives is the achievement of breath control, and that yogis believe through such mastery man could eventually learn to control life itself. This is done through controlling the prana, or life force which yoga teaches is in the air we breathe.

The pranic theory must be accepted by any student who really wishes to make progress, for it is a fundamental part of yoga philosophy.

Most intelligent people can accept the theory and believe in the existence of prana, realizing that there are so many things still unknown to man, and to those who remain skeptical it might be pointed out that 50 years ago anyone who talked about vitamins in food would have been regarded as extremely suspect.

According to yoga teaching, prana can be stored in the body and then directed by the mind to different parts, with revitalizing effects. A really advanced yogi can live on prana instead of food, for he knows how to replenish the cells of his body through his breathing.

More Vitality

For most people, however, the most that will be achieved is a heightened feeling of well-being and an improvement in health and vitality, which, after all, are not inconsiderable achievements.

The seat of vital energy in the body is the solar plexus, and this is the storage place of prana. There are many breathing exercises which direct prana to this centre and others which send it to different parts of the body . . . the glands, vital organs, nervous plexuses, with recharging and revitalizing effects.

Nothing can be done without the co-operation of the mind and will-power. In most cases the breathing exercises themselves are very easy to perform. The really difficult part is to control the mind and train it to work with and for you.

The yogic breath is a complete breath in which every part of the lungs is filled with air, increasing the intake of oxygen, and thus at the same time of prana.

Push Out Stomach

As you inhale you push out the stomach; this movement causes the diaphragm to descend and the lower part of the lungs to be filled. Then the middle part is filled by expanding the chest and finally the top of the lungs, by lifting and expanding the upper ribs. This is all done in one smooth, continuous movement, without any jerking.

As you exhale the stomach is drawn in, which lifts the diaphragm, the ribs return to normal position and the air is expelled from the lungs. With the picture of this procedure in the mind's eye it is easy to understand why the use of the abdomen is so important in yoga breathing.

Put your hands on the abdomen, with fingertips touching, and practise rhythmic breathing. Inhale through the nose, counting six, then exhale counting six. This slow rhythm of about five breaths to the minute, instead of the usual 15 to 20, is the yoga tempo of deep-breathing.

As you inhale and exhale you will notice how your fingertips move apart and come together again, demonstrating the expansion and contraction of the stomach. Slowing down the breath is a method of helping the body to relax.

Exercises

Here is a cycle of breathing exercises for invigorating the system. In all these exercises the breath is retained and then exhaled with the mind concentrated on the solar plexus and the mental image of prana being directed there.

1. Stand erect. Inhale full breath. Retain as long as comfortable. Exhale, forming mental image of prana directed to solar plexus.

2. Inhale. Raise arms forward, parallel with the floor. Grasp imaginary stick, retaining breath. Exhale and lower arms.

3. Inhale. Retain breath, tensing every muscle of the body. Exhale and relax.

4. Inhale. Rise up on tips of toes. Retain as long as you comfortably can. Exhale. Return to normal standing position.

5. Inhale. Raise both arms above head, putting palms together. Retain breath. Exhale. Lower arms.

6. Inhale. Press palms in front of chest in attitude of prayer. Retain breath. Exhale, releasing pressure and lowering arms.

7. Inhale. Retain breath. Combine the two previous movements. Raise arms above head, palms together, then slowly lower them—still pressed—until they are in attitude of prayer level with chest. Exhale.

Cleans Your Lungs

8. Ha Breath or Cleansing Breath. Stand with legs apart. Inhale deeply, raising the arms from the sides until they are stretched above the head. Throw the upper half of the body forward, bending from the waist, at the same time letting the arms fall forward and expelling the breath in a strong blast, making the sound HA. Let the body hang limply from the waist, arms swinging, head hanging loosely as you repeat the HA sound several times.

Stand up and repeat the inhaling and exhaling twice more.

This Ha or Cleansing Breath is designed to completely fill the lungs with fresh air and completely expel all tired or stale air that is lying in them. It should be practised three times at the end of every breathing cycle and is an important means of refreshing and recharging the body at any time when tiredness is felt.

If possible, devote three to five minutes every day to breathing exercises. To be effective, at least 60 deep breaths should be performed during the day. The best time of all is early morning on getting up, but if you suffer from insomnia you will find it helpful also to do deep breathing by an open window before going to bed.

WHAT IS YOGA?

It Beautifies

In general it might be said that it offers a means of relaxing the whole system, of beautifying and toning up the body and of postponing the effects of old age.

All these things have a universal appeal. Since nine out of ten adults living in western society suffer from strain, tension and maladies resulting from the exhausting demands of modern life, the ability to completely relax at will is an important asset.

Since every normal woman wants to look and feel her best, to be pretty and attractive and to enjoy life to the full, a knowledge of how to achieve these things cannot fail to interest her, particularly since she knows that they can often change her whole outlook, even her life. Finally, a means of preserving her vitality and attractions for many years is important to any woman, particularly if in the process she learns how to face old age, when it eventually comes, with serenity and charm.

A question very often asked is, "What is the right age to start yoga? Am I too old?" The answer is that any age is the right age, and no one is too old, for there is a form of yoga to suit everyone.

All Can Benefit

For young or middle-aged people of normal reasonable health the whole field is open; for the old or weak or ailing there are still techniques that may be safely practised, even though the most strenuous are forbidden.

Everyone can practise and benefit from breathing exercises and relaxation techniques, even if high blood-pressure prevents them from standing on their heads or performing advanced raised positions; and where there are no such disabilities quite remarkable results can be achieved.

Inability to perform complicated asanas should not discourage students, for yoga is not competitive. It is a very individual thing and the student gets from it what she puts into it, for in this form of physical culture the mind and character are just as important as the body.

A woman in her 40s will often benefit far more than an immature girl, however supple, for the older woman is mentally more prepared and receptive. Physical yoga is not just a question of performing acrobatic feats and tying oneself up like a contortionist, and young people sometimes fail to realize this, thus missing the full message behind the exercises.

Join the Fishes for Fun and Good Sport

Mrs. D. Michael pauses a moment before taking to the depths. Her tanks and suit are standard equipment for all divers—male or female.

Vivacious Laurie Wright says as she arms herself with a spear gun: "This is just in case I run into something—or someone!"

An American, attending medical school here, Miss Carolyn Cates learned to dive "in the muddy lakes back home" but finds the ocean "much better."

Mrs. Bill Hook occasionally takes "time out" from household duties and children because "diving is very good for the figure, you know."

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

Adventures under the sea are not to be left entirely to the fish—or so four Victoria women agree.

All are avid skindivers and will tell you, without batting an eye, that it is one of the greatest sports going and that with proper training, is no more dangerous than crossing the street.

"If you know what you are doing," says Mrs. Bill Hook, mother of two, "it's a lot of fun."

"I haven't done much diving during the past year because of the children, but my husband and I used to dive at the breakwater all the time."

Another mother, Mrs. D. (Jeannine) Michael, agrees that it is a lot of fun.

"I really enjoy it," she states. "There is so much to see. Off the breakwater, for instance, there are many samples of underwater plant life."

Both Mrs. Hook and Mrs. Michael feel that the sport is played up as being extremely dangerous—without justification.

"There are far more people killed in car accidents or just walking across the street than there are in diving," they say, almost in unison.

"When a diver drowns, it is usually because he doesn't have control of the situation, therefore he panics."

Miss Carolyn Cates, a medical student at St. Joseph's Hospital, is in agreement. She says: "If you have been properly trained, have proper gear and always dive in numbers, there is little chance of such an accident."

Here, on lower Vancouver Island, the number of women who dive could almost be counted on your fingers.

"But," says dark-haired Laurie Wright, "I think if they realized it is really quite safe, many more would go in for it."

Rod Palm, a well-known local diver, agrees.

"Many girls would like to try diving but they are constantly hearing—and reading—that it is dangerous. So, they are afraid to make the attempt."

Even for the most avid, however, the fun is combined with a problem—trying to climb in and out of wet diving gear.

The suits have to be fully powdered with corn starch first.

"They're so tight," mumbled Laurie as she tried pulling on her 'feet' (shoes worn with the suits). "that you almost need a lever to get out of them. And, if they weren't powdered, you couldn't get into them in the first place."

But soon all four modern mermaids are ready and armed with spear guns (just in case) and various other bits of gear, they set out to scan the depths.

Who knows, they may be helping set the pace towards a time when man (woman in this case) reverses the theories of evolution and returns to the sea.

And, as Jacques Cousteau writes: "Mingle long and deep among the fishes, breathing water as they do."

Maybe your child has curly hair...

We're not of those who believe children should become habits of beauty salons... time enough for that when they're older... But we do maintain that little girls... (even those of very tender years)... should have their hair properly cut by a stylist... and perhaps in some cases even a soft permanent if the hair is very fine and tank... and doesn't look well worn straight... The House of Glamour gives a lot of attention to children's hair... Danny Hajnal told us that proper cutting encourages natural curl... in fact he's even discovered natural curl in the hair of little girls whose mothers had given up hope long since... As for permanents, these are kept soft and gentle... and are given at reduced prices for children... Danny has even created a special styling for sweet young things... Called the Embassy Junior... it's short and curly... demands but the flip of a brush to keep it looking beguiling... So if you've been struggling with your child's hair... cutting it yourself or sending her to a barber... don't! Take her instead to the House of Glamour and have her hair cut properly... and permmed if necessary... She'll look better and neater... You'll have no more hair problems... The House of Glamour, 658 View St., 336-6188.

How bare you dare depends not on your courage but on your figure!

Fur prices... truly tempting...

Be sure to watch the papers for the announcement of Scuby's forthcoming August fur sale... because we assure you it's an event not to be missed if you're toying with the thought of buying any kind of fur garment... from cozy little collar to an opulent full-length mink coat... with all the gamut in between... We were talking to Mr. Scuby the other day and he assured us that his entire stock of high-quality furs... $200.00 worth to be precise... coats, jackets, stoles, sports-wear and neckpieces... will be marked down anywhere from 25% to 50% in this special sale... to mark Scuby Furs' second anniversary in Victoria... It just so happens that we know a great deal about Scuby's collection of furs... and we can assure you this is a genuine sale... not new things brought in for the occasion... Fur quality is of the finest... workmanship superb... styling impeccable... because Scuby's have always refused to have any truck with inferior fur garments... Their standards are high, and their integrity irreproachable... mighty nice to know when you're investing in furs, isn't it? So do watch for this really tremendous sale!... Scuby Furs Ltd., 911 Government St., 333-4361.

Big savings in summer frocks...

If we had a dollar for every Victoria woman who relies on Mary Constance to keep her beautifully dressed... we'd be well on our way to riches!... And just the other day a Vancouver friend informed us she invariably heads for Mary Constance when she's over here... "I always seem to find what I'm looking for there," she says. "At home I sometimes have to shop around for days!"... We feel the same way... Mary Constance clothes are invariably well chosen... have the chic, well-bred look clothes-conscious women adore... As you probably know, there's been a sale going on at Mary Constance all this month... Quite worthwhile reductions on summer dresses... Now Mary tells us that next week she's slashing prices still lower!... A golden opportunity, we'd say, to pick up a dress or two to see you through the rest of the summer... and start off next summer right smartly!... Talking of fall clothes, we had a peep at some of the newly-arrived suits which were still under wraps... lovely soft tweeds in dressmaker styles... complete with blouse or shell in matching wool crepe... We learned that greens, browns and berry shades will be the most-wanted colors come autumn... Mary Constance Dress Shop, 734 Fort St., EV 5-4932.

Have you seen the Jamaica Ska?...

* Want to learn to dance the watusi... the frug... the hully-gully... or newest of all, the Jamaica Ska?... Well, maybe this does leave you cold (though we hear the best people... even of mature age... are doing it)... But one thing you can be sure of, your teen-agers will want to do these new dances!... So why not let them learn to do them properly?... The Arthur Murray School of Dancing is forming new classes for teen-agers now... Ten one-hour lessons for only $15... Classes are kept small... not more than a dozen 14 to 18-year-olds in each... in order that individual attention can be given to every student... While they'll learn all these new dances which are the teen-agers' delight... they'll also be taught the conventional ballroom dances which they'll learn properly now... and bless you for in years to come... They'll have a lot of fun, too... because Arthur Murray teachers... as well as being absolutely tops as teachers of dancing... are young and gay and have a special knack with young people... We can't think of a more wholesome, healthful recreation for youngsters (as well as oldsters) than dancing... So why not enroll your teen-ager in one of the classes?... And while you're about it, enquire about lessons for yourself, too!... Arthur Murray School of Dancing, 715 Yates St., EV 5-1476.

New "at home" party pyjamas fit loosely, have wide full pants.

It's a great world "Down Under"...

Not so long ago we were talking to a friend who took his family for a holiday "down under" last Christmas... He talked our ear off about Australia, New Zealand and the South Pacific in general... Marvellous country... glorious climate... delightful people! Said if he didn't have to earn a living here he'd pull up stakes and head for Australia right now!... At Paulin's Travel Service they tell us an awful lot of people are being captured by the charm of the Antipodes... A South Pacific round trip aboard one of those luxurious P&O Orient liners (for which Paulin's are agents) is just about the finest winter holiday anyone has ever devised... You sail from Vancouver... with stopovers at San Francisco... Honolulu... Suva... Auckland... to Sydney... Stay a few days or weeks... or even months... Return by a sister ship... And even if you weren't seeing new sights and enjoying new experiences, the life aboard ship is a holiday in itself... Gourmet food... de luxe service... luxurious surroundings... new friendships with interesting people from every part of the world... If this tempts you, we suggest you drop in to Paulin's and let them tell you about sailings, etc... Then read the brochures and you'll really be hooked!... George Paulin Travel Service, 1008 Government St., EV 2-9168.

Who's afraid of the bad, bad rain?...

Rain was coming down in buckets last Monday when we headed for Wilson's... so not too surprisingly, we made straight for the raincoats... and were regarded with the sight of some new arrivals that put a new (summer?) complexion on our day... Truth to tell, garbed in one of these smart numbers, you could almost wish the rain would never stop!... We especially liked the double-breasted tailored raincoats with chicily curved half-belts... in a material which looks like a wide-waled corduroy... especially treated, of course, to withstand anything short of a deluge... Gloom-defying colors of dark red and emerald green... as well as sophisticated black... Another eye-stopper is the dark brown Egyptian cotton coat with python collar and buttons... and for our money, the completely reversible cape... black one side, bone the other... is the smartest as well as the most practical rain garment imaginable because you could wear it over anything... including a fur coat!... Price tags on all these are quite reasonable... If you love the gaiety of polka dots, you won't be able to resist the Danish raincoats in brown or navy, be-sprinkled with medium size white dots... worn unbelted or with a tie sash... Smart as all get-out, and guaranteed to keep you dry... W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., EV 3-7177.

Short tight skirts that ride up, slide above knees when sitting, are definitely on the way out this fall.

10,000 miles or 10 blocks... call Cantin's...

Don't think for a moment that just because you haven't a house full of furniture to be moved, or even a Steinway grand... but just a little old armchair you promised to give to your Jane for the cottage... that you can't call Cantin's to do the hauling... because you most emphatically can... and should!... By the time you've jammed that chair into your own chariot you're likely to have scratched the car... fractured your temple... and broken the chair... All of which you could have saved yourself if you'd spent maybe a couple of dollars and had one of Cantin's cheerful men come and take it away... Which is by way of telling you that no job is too small for Cantin's to handle... so you shouldn't feel any hesitation about calling them... By the same token, no job is too big, either... They transport things all over the continent with the greatest of ease... Just recently they chalked up a "first" by taking huge trailer truck full of furniture on the Island Princess to Port Hardy... Their prowess at packing and crating precious things like antiques is phenomenal... and even the most routine moving job is handled with gentle care as well as speed!... So no matter what you want taken from here to there call... Cantin's Moving and Storage, 742 Pemroke St., 385-3476.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Hats Are a Must From Dawn to Dusk

By NONA DAMASKE 20 Victoria Daily Times SAT, JULY 25, 1964

"Should I wear a hat?" The answer is—there is absolutely no choice for fall and winter, 1964. You do not even consider the time of day. From 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. is hat time.

Women are busier today than they have ever been. And there are times when they must dress early in Damaské the day in costume which will see them through until the late evening.

A hat is an instrument of magic that can change a woman's entire appearance in a twinkling. Like Cinderella's godmother, a hat can transform a woman from a smartly tailored shopper at the supermarket to a glamorous eye-catching guest at a restaurant luncheon table.

There is no better therapy for the female spirit than a hat. Perhaps there isn't time to change a whole outfit but there is always time to change a hat.

Fashion news from leading millinery designers will allow you to change your hat with every mood. Fall is an exciting season for millinery. There are felts, furs and feathers; there are velours and velvets; there are suedes and satins.

Colors are rich and glowing and the shapes are more varied than they have been in many years.

The severely tailored look of past seasons has softened. Crowns remain high and brims tend to be wider. The wider brim hats are usually worn straight on but the more daring will sport a tilt.

Turbans are twisting; berets are big and the "chechia" is most chic.

There is always something new for the woman who wants to be a pace-setter. In the millinery world the news is "cover up."

Some of the new chapeaux come with matching scarves which cover the entire head and tie or button under the chin.

SHOPPING GUIDE

English-Made Plaques Make Ideal Souvenirs

By PENNY SAVER

If you are in the market for some ideal souvenirs, shop I was recently in the place to visit.

One particularly interesting item I spotted on the shelf was a hand-painted three-dimensional picture plaque that is selling at $2.50.

After questioning the proprietor, I discovered these are made in England and the raised design is achieved by using various moulds.

A typical design for British Columbia is the one depicting the Indian thunderbird surrounded with dogwood blossoms and with seagulls flying in the background.

Others have large life-like roses in red and yellow tones.

Also available are sets of six coasters depicting Canadian wildlife. These are made in Canada of laminated fibreglass with black walnut frames and sell at $5.95 a set.

They are waterproof, unbreakable and resistant to heat, alcohol and normal acids and alkalies. Frames are finished with hand-rubbed waterproof lacquer.

For the coffee drinker, shop has English bone china mugs priced at $1.95 each. Mugs are tall and light in weight and have large handles so that they are even suitable for the man in the family.

Cups are designed with flowers or antique model cars.

The proprietor said, "The trend today is away from the heavy cup. People are now going in for something with less weight."

Another item that makes an ideal souvenir is the "lucky penny" key chain. These sell for 49 cents and are made of leather with a 1964 Canadian penny attached to the front.

For further information on name and location of shop selling these items, call Penny at 382-3131.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"...And think of all the uses we'd have for it around the house—like going after the paper when the boy misses the porch."

TODAY'S RECIPE

GAZPACHO OR CHILLED SOUP

Four large very ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped (2 cups); 1 large cucumber, peeled and diced (1½ cups); 1 medium-size onion, finely minced (¼ cup); 1 green pepper, seeded and finely minced (1 cup); 1 cup tomato juice; 1 tablespoon wine vinegar; 3 tablespoons olive oil; 1 small clove garlic, minced; salt and pepper to taste.

Mix the tomatoes, cucumber, onion, green pepper, tomato juice, vinegar, oil, garlic, salt and pepper together well. Chill mixture until icy. Serve in small glasses with an ice cube in each, or spoon into bowls lined with crisp leaves of iceberg lettuce. Makes six to eight servings.

Hot Mattress

An Oxfordshire, England manufacturer has perfected a new air-conditioned mattress that blows warm air through the bed from below.

Well, here's an interesting at-home costume for your most elegant party! If you have a trim midriff, that is. Have the brief halter top and full skirt in brilliant color (apple green? sky blue?), cover it with a flowing white organdy mantle.

Smart as all get-out, and guaranteed to keep you dry... W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., EV 3-7177.

Short tight skirts that ride up, slide above knees when sitting, are definitely on the way out this fall.

Who's afraid of the bad, bad rain?...

Rain was coming down in buckets last Monday when we headed for Wilson's... so not too surprisingly, we made straight for the raincoats... and were regarded with the sight of some new arrivals that put a new (summer?) complexion on our day... Truth to tell, garbed in one of these smart numbers, you could almost wish the rain would never stop!... We especially liked the double-breasted tailored raincoats with chicily curved half-belts... in a material which looks like a wide-waled corduroy... especially treated, of course, to withstand anything short of a deluge... Gloom-defying colors of dark red and emerald green... as well as sophisticated black... Another eye-stopper is the dark brown Egyptian cotton coat with python collar and buttons... and for our money, the completely reversible cape... black one side, bone the other... is the smartest as well as the most practical rain garment imaginable because you could wear it over anything... including a fur coat!... Price tags on all these are quite reasonable... If you love the gaiety of polka dots, you won't be able to resist the Danish raincoats in brown or navy, be-sprinkled with medium size white dots... worn unbelted or with a tie sash... Smart as all get-out, and guaranteed to keep you dry... W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., EV 3-7177.

Vows Exchanged in St. Mary's Church This Afternoon

St. Mary's Anglican Church, Ann Mary MacDougall and Colin Oak Bay, was decorated with Carlile Creighton. The bride is the daughter of Major and Mrs. Keith MacDougall and stocks, at the gall, 2415 Lansdowne Road, and chancel rail, when Canon Hywell the granddaughter of the late father, the petite brown-haired bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory-toned pure silk peau de soie. The groom is the son of Mrs. Hugh Creighton, 1217 May Street, and the late Mr. Creighton.

Given in marriage by her father, the petite brown-haired bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory-toned pure silk peau de soie. The slim skirt extended to a train from unpressed pleats at the waistline and the fitted bodice featured a rounded neckline and scalloped elbow-length sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of French lace misted from a headpiece of organza roses. Pink roses and white glamelias were in her cascade bouquet.

Floor-length gowns of ash rose silk peau de soie styled with fitted bodices and belled skirts were choice of the bride's attendants, Miss Josephine MacDougall, her sister; Miss Robin Ogilvie, Ottawa, a cousin, and Miss Nore Taylor.

Hugh A. Creighton was best man for his twin brother and guests were ushered to their pews by Ian Stewart, Jack Carmichael and David Edgar.

Hon. Mr. Justice R. A. Wootten proposed the toast to the bride at a garden reception at the home of her parents.

Arrangements of pink roses and stocks were used as decoration. The newlyweds cut the three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, with her father's regimental sword.

For travelling, the bride wore a white sleeveless linen sheath with multi-colored print and topped with a blue linen coat. A small brimmed white straw hat banded in blue, white accessories and corsage of gardenias and stephanotis completed the ensemble.

Of Personal Interest

From South Africa

Miss May Speed recently flew into Victoria from her home in Durban, South Africa, to visit her aunt, Mrs. E. Dear, at her Lavender Avenue home. During her two-month stay here Miss Speed will also visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. Walker, in their Esquimalt Road home. When she leaves in September she will go to Banff and then to Toronto where she will visit her cousin, Lt.-Cmdr. H. C. Dear and Mrs. Dear.

Attend Ceremony

Miss Mary MacGillivray, of Washington, D.C., was among out-of-town guests in the city to attend the Creighton-MacDougall wedding this afternoon. Other guests included Miss Jessie Torrance, Toronto; Miss L. Ross, Miss Wendy Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. David Painter, Mrs. H. Ingram, Mrs. Jack Carlile, Mr. G. Moffat, Mrs. R. Brooks, Mrs. Ian McAllister and Mr. A. Ernest Alexander, all of Vancouver.

Golden Anniversary

Congratulatory messages from His Honor Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, Mr. A. B. Macfarlane, MLA, and their son, Mr. J. H. Palmer, were received by Major and Mrs. J. H. G. Palmer today on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

The couple will be entertained at a tea and cocktail party in the Orchard Avenue home of Mrs. Palmer's sister, Mrs. I. A. Crawford, from 4 p.m. They were married in Srinagar, Kashmir, on July 25, 1914, and came to Vancouver Island in 1923. They have resided in Victoria for the past six years. The couple has a daughter, Mrs. N. A. C. (Margaret) Smillie and four grandchildren.

Carnation leis were presented to the couple by the bride's twin brothers, Tara and Ranjit Sangha.

Sangha, 2650 Prior Street, and

Mr. and Mrs. Jaswant Singh Berar of Lake Cowichan. Mrs. Sangha gave his daughter in marriage.

Giani Sujan Singh officiated at the ceremony in the Sikh Temple.

Identical Indian salwar and kameez in muted tones of blue nylon sheer chiffon and taffeta were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. George Mahon, sister of the bride; bridesmaids, Misses Barindar Jawant and Jasbir Gill, her cousins and the flower girls, the Misses Maya Sangha and Amir Sangha, nieces of the bride.

Their headpieces were toning silk chiffon shawls. Senior attendants carried colonial bouquets of blue and white carnations and the flower girls carried golden baskets of white carnations.

Rand Sangha was page boy for his aunt.

Best man was Sodie Berar, brother of the groom, and ushers were another brother, Vicky Berar and Mahindar Singh Sangha, brother of the bride.

Jeet Sangha proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in the Union Centre Hall. The bride's table was centred with an all-white three-tier cake decorated with roses and topped with yellow rosebuds. Arrangements of white and yellow roses completed the decorations.

For travelling on a honeymoon motor trip through Washington and Oregon, the bride wore a beige wool Italian knit suit with fuchsia-toned Indian shawl, complementing mink-trimmed accessories and pink rose corsage.

On return the couple will live in Vancouver.

I had to take a rain check

on that promise and hope I'll get back some day to taste the delicacy.

"Stay another day and you'll taste it," Mr. Bell promised.

I had to take a rain check on that promise and hope I'll get back some day to taste the delicacy.

"I can't taste the brewis right now," he continued, a bit wistfully. "You're right. That kind of food is good!"

Photographer Irving Strickland has been looking over my shoulder the last few minutes and, as he follows my typing, he's been reminiscing.

Seems his parents came originally from Newfoundland and when he was a young boy, the foods I've talked about here were standard diet in his home.

"I've eaten pounds of scrunchons," he told me, "and I've seen pork brewis come out of the oven more times than I can remember. We used to buy hard biscuits by the sack."

"I can't taste the brewis right now," he continued, a bit wistfully. "You're right. That kind of food is good!"

This soft biscuit fluff is placed in a baking dish, a sauce made of pork drippings and scrunchons is poured over it and the whole thing is cooked to a golden brown.

It's an overworked word—but again I'm going to say—delicious!

UVIC OFFICIAL REPORTS

Canada Still Unknown In Continental Europe

By AB KENT

Canada is still the "unknown country" to European people, University of Victoria summer session director Hugh Farquhar found in a year's leave abroad.

He returned recently after a 10-month leave of absence, nearly half of it spent on the continent, the other in the British Isles visiting colleges and universities.

"We haven't really done a selling job on Canada," Mr. Farquhar said.

"People over there are always polite and glad to see Canadians, but they don't really know anything about us and don't show any real interest. Australia is better known, largely, I think, due to athletes — their swimming, track, cricket, in which they do very well."

Americans Know Us

HUGH FARQUHAR
... no selling job

The administrator, who travelled some 12,000 miles with his wife, much of it by private car, found many Americans in Europe, and "nearly always an American will know Victoria."

The English often were found to think of Canada in terms of ice and snow and when the Farquhars began telling them of the bounties of Victoria, "you tell them they didn't believe us. After a while we didn't bother."

"If I were to go again I would want to take a lot of publicity material with me. Once in Murcia (Spain) a group of boys clustered around the car and showed great interest in it."

"I wished I could have given them brochure or something typical of the Victoria area. They were no maps, pictures or books and the children showed no spark of recognition when Mr. Farquhar, who speaks no Spanish, tried to tell them where he was from."

Spain Recovers

There are many poor areas in Spain, but "Spain has made a marvellous recovery since the Civil War. The resorts are booming. They are building high-rise apartments and hotels in the cities and coast areas and there is prosperity," he said.

In fact, he felt the only area of Europe visited by him that lacked an aura of well-being was Italy.

"Italy is on the verge of trouble. They have inflation and unemployment is beginning to appear. We saw one unemployed march there."

Mr. Farquhar visited some 20 universities and colleges in England, courtesy of the British Council, which gave him a subsidy.

"I talked to people in all areas of university work-administration, buildings, development, etc."

"I hope we can profit by some of the things they are doing in higher education. If we don't do things a little differently at the start, it is hard to change later," Mr. Farquhar said, looking to the development of UVic.

Medic director Dr. R. E. Adams said the staff had been told only that an exercise would be run after 6. He pushed the signal at 7:58, having selected Friday because it is normally the hardest time to find people at home.

Key personnel immediately responded to the homes of their staffs and within 20 minutes hypothetical cases were being sorted in the main reception area.

It was the first time such an exercise had been run "unstaged" as to time and situation.

"It was a amazing," Dr. Adams said, indicating his pleasure at the test's success.

Patients were brought in from an "earthquake" in Cordoba Bay, "hardest hit district in the area. They were divided as to condition and injury: fractures, ambulatory wounded, resuscitation, operating room and ward treatment areas.

Permanent Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a surprise sequel to the Bobby Baker case, the U.S. Senate has voted to set up a permanent bipartisan committee with broad powers to investigate any charges of improper or illegal conduct among its members.

The test ran to 9 p.m. after staff had full opportunity to sort out situations that came up bers or employees.

Sin Against WCB Rules

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Workmen's Compensation Board cancels pensions of widows it considers to be "living in sin."

Board chairman J. Edwin Eades made the statement here Thursday while under cross-examination during the Royal Commission inquiring into the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Commission counsel Gordon Raw was trying to determine the board's right or qualification to sit in moral judgement.

"If a widow is living — as the clergy would say — in sin, we have cancelled the pension," Mr. Eades said. "Whenever this has been done the widow married subsequently."

There are many common problems there and here, he found — lack of money, rapid growth, staffing, for example.

"In England, the government has an enlightened attitude toward higher education. It is considered a right, not a privilege, and therefore the government accepts 100 per cent of building costs.

"It quite surpasses anything we are doing."

Mr. Farquhar found some of the new universities are breaking away from tradition entirely. They may have an entire school of American studies, another of Asian studies, for instance.

Flexible, Exciting

Things of an experimental nature are being tried and "I think it is going to be quite flexible and exciting. They will try to retain the best of the old as well as the new."

About 90 per cent of English students get financial help from the government.

This is better than any country but Russia, Mr. Farquhar said, but candidates are carefully selected, making a low failure rate of 5 per cent.

"They take in fewer students but graduate as many or more as other countries."

Yet, because the universities frown on summer employment, preferring that students holiday or read up on their subjects or interests, an English graduate may be less ready to cope with the workday world than Canadian students, who must work during vacation to help pay tuition.

"I hope we can profit by some of the things they are doing in higher education. If we don't do things a little differently at the start, it is hard to change later," Mr. Farquhar said, looking to the development of UVic.

Medic director Dr. R. E. Adams said the staff had been told only that an exercise would be run after 6. He pushed the signal at 7:58, having selected Friday because it is normally the hardest time to find people at home.

GREAT IDEAS FROM GREAT BOOKS

Conscience 'Inner Voice' Another Human Faculty

Dear Dr. Adler:

In our world of today, it seems few people have a conscience, or it is buried so far beneath the surface that they never use it. I would like to know if everyone is born with a conscience, or is this something we ourselves have to acquire? How do the great minds feel toward this subject—conscience?

90 HANDICAPPED MAY BE LEFT JOBLESS

Downtown Fire Rages 5 Hours

$63,000 Block Stuffed With 'Goodwill' Stock

By DESMOND BILL

Ninety persons were put out of work and a downtown building was half destroyed this morning in one of the city's worst fires.

The largest turnout of city firemen in recent years battled for five hours to bring the blaze at the old Brackman-Ker Building at the corner of Broad and Pandora under control. They were still on the job at press time.

The fire was in the windowless top floor of the 58-year-old structure. Firemen finally had to pull the roof right off the building to get at it.

DROWNED FIRE

Then they literally drowned the fire with thousands of gallons of water poured on it from the roofs of nearby buildings.

The building was sold two months ago for $63,000 to Lou MacDonald of MacDonald's Ltd. furniture store, 752 Fort. He said it was adequately covered by insurance.

But Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped, which occupied the entire building, has had its entire operation ruined and the 90 persons it employs will likely be out of work.

The top floor of the building was stuffed to the brim with clothes, bedding and small hardware which is essential to the Goodwill operation.

Appliances, radios and furniture donated to Goodwill were kept on the second floor. Forty handicapped persons worked on the main floor, sewing, sorting and pressing.

The entire contents of the building were ruined.

NO INSURANCE

George Gray, president and manager of Goodwill Enterprises, said there is no insurance to cover this kind of loss. He could put no value on the damage because almost all the building's contents were donated by citizens who support the operation for handicapped workers.

Mr. Gray said Goodwill can't keep operating without materials to process. He appealed for the public to replace the material that is lost.

Officials of the Rotary Club, which sponsors Goodwill Enterprise, have contributed so the workers can continue their jobs.

Fire Chief John Abbott said it was impossible to determine the cause of the fire. There was speculation it may have been caused by mice chewing through electrical wiring.

It was first reported shortly after 7 a.m. by Miss Lilly Bell, 637 Dunedin, who saw smoke and drew the attention of a passing police patrol car to it.

FLAMES LEAPED

Flames were leaping up out of the roof at the beginning but quickly changed to thick, grey smoke which continued to pour out for five hours while firemen tried to get at the seat of the blaze.

By 7:30 six fire rigs were on the scene and a call went out for more men. There were 40 firemen by the time all off-duty men were called in.

At first they tried to chop holes in the side of the completely walled-in top floor but the fire hoses they put through the openings had no effect.

Chief Abbott said his greatest worry was that the roof would

SUNNY SUNDAY SENT US

Sunday will be just that—a day with sun.

Weatherman William Mackie said this afternoon temperatures should hit the high seventies in Victoria on Sunday, making the general forecast "sunny and warm, pleaseantly so."

The mercury may dip to 33 tonight.

Rising temperatures are expected to increase the forest fire hazard, however, at least in the southern half of the province.

By Friday, 51 forest fires were burning in B.C., none of them considered dangerous.

WIRE BRIEFS

Fishermen to Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) announced today that 3,000 fisheries shoreworkers will vote early next week on a new contract offered by the British Columbia Fisheries Association.

Gang Assaults Youth

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 19-year-old youth was viciously beaten early today by a gang of teen-agers. Charles Venables was in hospital today with a broken shoulder. He said the gang of five teenagers suddenly attacked him for no reason, dragging him into an alley.

S. Viet Nam Asks Aid

Battle On in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Civil war erupted in half a dozen spots in central Laos today but the heaviest fighting was around strategic Phou Kout Hill near the Plain des Jarres where a see-saw battle raged for hours.

Chief Justice Sherwood Lett Dies Suddenly

Government leaders, eminent jurists and prominent lawyers today paid tribute to Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the B.C. Court of Appeal, who died in Vancouver Friday night after a sudden relapse following a prolonged illness.

He would have been 69 next Saturday.

The chief justice suffered a heart attack while attending the opening of the B.C. legislature here last February.

His death came almost a year to the day after he ruled that the B.C. government's expropriation of the B.C. Electric company was unconstitutional.

Premier Shocked

Premier Bennett, whose government was the loser by the ruling, said he was "shocked and saddened" by the death of the chief justice.

"The people of this province and of Canada have suffered a great loss," said the premier, now weekending on Salt Spring Island. "In his remarkable career may be seen the accomplishments, it seems, of several lifetimes."

Mr. Bennett spoke of his distinguished career as chancellor of UBC and later "as a gallant officer and senior commander in two world wars, as a leading member of the legal profession and more recently as chief justice of this province."

He said Chief Justice Lett would be missed as a valued friend and adviser to countless people in Canada in all walks of life.

"Mrs. Bennett joins me in extending deepest sympathies to Mrs. Lett and the family."

MONUMENTAL WORK

Mr. Justice H. W. Davey of the B.C. Appeal Court, said the B.C. Electric judgment, declaring the expropriation of the company invalid, was "a monumental work."

"I think it was in some degree responsible for his illness," Mr. Justice Davey said.

Attorney-General Robert Bonnard said the career of the chief

CURFEW ORDERED

2,000 Negroes On Rampage In Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Two thousand enraged Negroes battled police and state troopers today in race rioting and looting that lasted more than 10 hours.

City officials declared a public emergency and later imposed a city-wide curfew.

Steel-helmeted police and 211 state troopers used high pressure water hoses and tear gas grenades to bring the knife-throwing, brick-and-bottle-throwing Negroes under control.

There still were a few sporadic outbreaks in the two-square mile Negro neighborhood where the violence erupted but the full-scale civil insurrection had been quieted by 10 a.m. EDT.

White toughs helped trigger the outbreaks.

City officials were fearful that the widespread rioting and looting that injured 98 persons, including 24 policemen, might break out again at any moment.

City manager Porter W. Homer announced the curfew at 1:30 p.m. EDT following a meeting of top city officials.

CLOSE TAVERNS

Homer also asked that all bars and saloons stay closed and urged that even people with night jobs stay in their homes and off the streets.

The curfew was to be in effect from 8 p.m. until 7 a.m.

The curfew was to continue throughout the duration of the emergency.

—Homer warned that any person found on the streets during the hours of curfew would be arrested unless he could prove that an emergency required him to leave his home.

The riot damage was in the millions. Virtually every store in a 10-block area along Joseph Avenue, the main thoroughfare in the 52-block Negro area of violence, was looted or damaged.

Police Chief William Lombard sped to the scene when the rioting started. Negroes mobbed his car, overturned it and set it on fire, and beat him.

He was not seriously injured. Police surrounded him, battled off rioters with clubs, and took him out of the danger area.

Five fire companies were sent to the area. The Negroes chopped some of the hoses when high pressure streams were turned on them. A police dispatcher said that some of them used machetes.

Joseph Mazzeo, manager of the Emerson Western New York Inc., said rioters smashed into his company's warehouse and carried off hundreds of television and hi-fi sets. He estimated damage at $500,000.

"Anything they couldn't carry they broke," he said.

The riot began shortly before midnight when two policemen tried to arrest a Negro for drunkenness at a street dance. Four Negro youths jumped the policemen, and dozens of others poured out of nearby bars and saloons and dance halls joining the battle.

Greek-Cypriots Smuggle More Military Supplies

NICOSIA (AP)—Greek-Cypriots poured more supplies into Cyprus today while United Nations forces delayed a show-down on their freedom of movement on the island.

A UN spokesman said 26 vehicles carrying crates and oil drums moved under armed escort from Limassol docks to Nicosia before dawn. It was the third large convoy carrying what is presumed to be military supplies into the island in five days.

UN Secretary-General U Thant has expressed "growing concern" to Greek-Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios that UN forces are being kept out of the Limassol dock area and otherwise having their freedom of movement in sensitive areas restricted. (See story Page 21.)

Despite continued tension, the island was quiet, with only few scattered shots fired between the warring Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Ship Blast Kills 200

ALGIERS (Reuters)—At least 200 persons died and 22 were injured when the Egyptian ship Star of Alexandria blew up while unloading ammunition in the east Algerian port of Bone Thursday, latest estimates said today.

The figures were quoted by an employee of the Bone prefecture. He said an estimated 130 persons were missing and 52 seriously injured in hospitals.

Ambulances still took dead and injured to hospitals, and workers searched the shambles along the Bone waterfront.

A provisional estimate of damage to the harbor area was put at 70,000,000 dinars ($14,000,000).

BARRY NEEDED

Civil Rights
To Stay
In Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has laid out his path for the fall campaign along the high road of politics, stressing peace, prosperity, moderation and avoiding personal attacks on his Republican opponent, Barry Goldwater.

He said all this again Friday in a televised press conference.

But—at the same time—"old campaigner" Johnson just could not resist a chance to needle the Arizona senator on the role in the campaign of civil rights, civilian control over nuclear weapons and lawlessness in the streets.

The press conference covered a variety of topics. But it always returned to one subject—Johnson's campaign next fall against Goldwater.

Asked if he expected "a rather rough campaign," Johnson replied:

"Most campaigns are rough campaigns. I'm an old campaigner. I have been at it 30 years. One of the first things I learned, at least so far as I am concerned, is the people are not much interested in my personal opinion of my opponent."

PURPOSE OF ELECTIONS

Speaking only two hours before a scheduled meeting with Goldwater to discuss the racial question and other subjects, Johnson said, ". . . I do not believe that any issue which is before the people can be eliminated from the campaign in a free society in an election year. After all, that is the purpose of elections, to discuss the issues."

Later, the two men met for 15 minutes and released a short statement saying they agreed "racial tensions should be avoided" in the campaign ahead.

Johnson, in the press conference, went on to say:

"No word or deed of mine, that I am aware of, has ever—or I hope will ever—lend any aid or any comfort to this small minority who would take the law into their own hands. . . ."

"If Senator Goldwater and his advisers, and his followers, will follow the same course that I intend to follow . . . which is a course of rebuffing and rebuking bigots and those who seek to excite and exploit tensions, then it will be most welcome."

PRESIDENT'S JOB

Asked about Goldwater's suggestion that at least the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander should be given more authority in the use of nuclear weapons, Johnson said this is the president's responsibility.

". . . The control of the nuclear weapons is one of the most solemn responsibilities of the president of the United States—the man who is president can never get away from that responsibility and can never forget it."

"The American people rely on his good judgment. They want that authority vested in a civilian. They do not expect to abandon this duty to military men in the field. . . ."

VANCOUVER LOVES MOBY DOLL

No Sale for Whale

VANCOUVER (CP) — Moby Doll the killer whale is not for sale.

Aquarium officials say they couldn't sell the whale after local businesses and the armed forces have donated time and equipment which they estimate would have cost a small fortune if the bills had to be paid.

Burrard Drydock was the biggest contributor in the whale operation, and Friday the company's floating drydock containing the captive whale was pulled across English Bay here and the whale was moved to its new home.

Even the Vancouver police boat contributed to the action when its shrill siren was turned on to scare the whale out of the drydock and into her new pen.

A local towing company provided six tugs to pull the drydock seven miles to Jericho army base, a gate was made for the whale by a wire rope company and old fence from Chilliwack and Jericho army bases was used to line the pen.

A team of navy frogmen from Esquimalt and army personnel assembled the pen between pilings at deserted army wharf.

Scientists and doctors also contributed time. But all agreed the time and expenditure was well worth it, considering that Vancouver has the only live killer whale in captivity.

"Wow, I wasn't really sure we were going to make it," said aquarium curator Dr. Murray Newman, summing up the 10-hour move.

The trip across the harbor was uneventful but when the time came to move the whale from the drydock to the pen, the fun started.

Vince Penfold, assistant curator, was perched in a small flat-bottomed boat inside the drydock. For two hours he tried to force the 17-foot whale out.

Once he grabbed the whale's dorsal fin and was given a rousing cheer by other members of the crew.

The whale, estimated to weigh 2½ tons, finally was forced through a special chute and into the enclosure.

"This is a very intelligent animal," Dr. Newman said.

"It has a type of built-in radar and emits supersonic sounds. It knew all the time we were trying to force it through a funnel."

The big job now is to get Moby Doll onto regular diet. She has eaten little since her capture nine days ago. Scientists will also try to determine the sex of the whale and they plan a series of tests on the whale's heart, brain, blood, voice and chromosomes.

Bill Monahan and Dave Brown, president and curator of California's Marineland of the Pacific, took a look at the whale and said they would be interested in acquiring it.

Arthur Mayse

In the weeks since summer allegedly began, I have been asked several times a question to which only a partial answer can be given.

"Just how bad is this business of punks beating up provincial park campsites?"

A factual tally of such incidents isn't to be had, since not every hoodlum raid on camps and campers has been reported.

Also, much of the talk that's making the rounds to worry people who'd like to go camping is rumor and hearsay based on exaggeration.

Several asserted beatups diminished on investigation to the not precisely appalling fact that young vacationists camped down the line were given to noisy singing around their fires.

The parks branch itself has had three complaints of interference with campers by hoodlum packs on Vancouver Island this year.

Statistically, then, you and your family can enjoy a holiday from a provincial park base on this island with minimum probability of interference.

But if such does materialize—and the risk exists—you are in for a nightmare that may bring your trip to a messy end and make camping a disastrous topic ever after.

The parks branch, which is not a law enforcement agency, is doing what it can and I think about all it can with its existing funds and resources to guard you against this relatively new threat to a pleasant outdoors holiday.

In certain parks, it has switched its fee-collecting rounds from daytime to late evening, and is keeping an officer on duty until the small hours. Sproat Lake is one of this number.

At locations which I suggest you check before dark sets in, government telephones are being installed.

More intensive police patrolling has been promised by the RCMP, and a proposal is being weighed whereby Civil Defence, an instrument of demonstrated usefulness in British Columbia, may help out through its RCMP-trained auxiliary police.

Under this plan, one RCMP and one civil defence auxiliary policeman would work together as a patrol team in some parks.

Signs are also to be posted offering a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of park trouble-makers.

Locked gates and curfews aren't being contemplated.

"A curfew," one senior parks branch official told me, "is completely against the spirit of camping."

Topics of the Day

Sunday is the last day for St. Joseph's Hospital visitors to see the reception entrance in its present condition.

Starting Monday walls will be pushed out to allow the emergency department to expand in connection with a hospital development program. A new reception rotunda will be built.

Two Victoria firms shared $140,318 in defense contracts awarded during the latter half of June.

Pioneers To Decide On Museum

The newly appointed president of the Saanich Pioneer Society has announced he will call a meeting in August to decide "once and for all" whether members are for or against expanding the pioneer museum at the Saanich fair grounds.

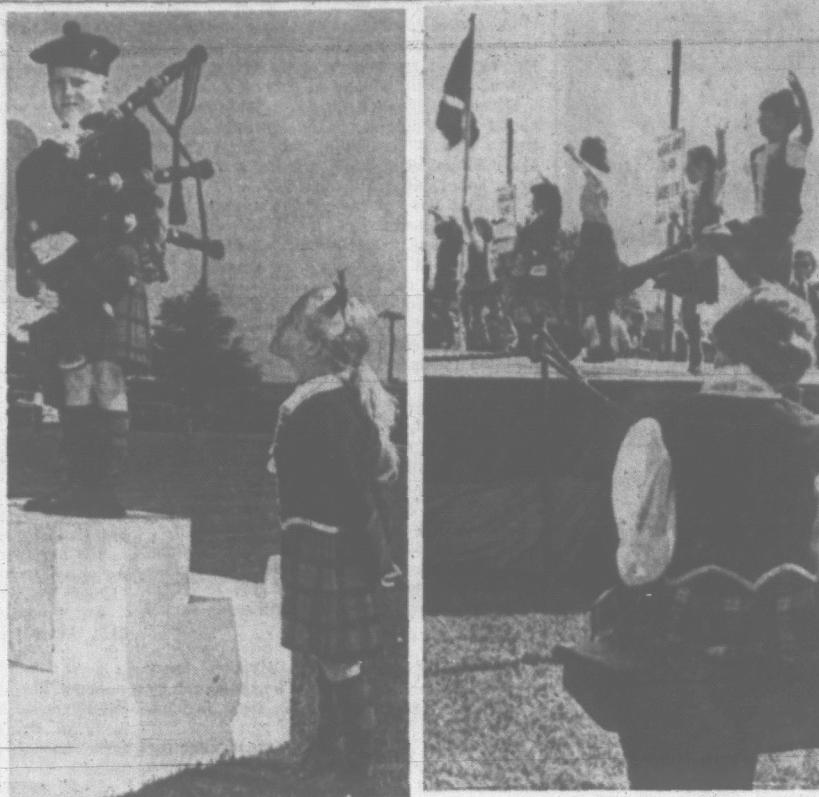

Harold C. Young of Central Saanich Road replaced Willard Michell, East Saanich Road farmer, who resigned as president of the society Monday when members refused to back up museum expansion plans which he said they had previously endorsed.

The plans called for a fire-proof pioneer museum and a shelter for old farm machinery presently stored on Mr. Michell's farm.

The pioneer relics are presently housed in a log cabin on the fair grounds.

Mr. Young said he didn't want to become involved in the controversy "but I can't see how the society can finance a larger museum like the one being established by the Cowichan Valley Logging Society in Duncan."

He said he would call a meeting to decide the issue probably around the third week in August.

HOW'S THIS LOOK? six-year-old Kenneth Black asks little Sheila Smith. It was piping and dancing the

No One Noticed the Heat With Scottish on Stage

By JIM BIGSBY

The skirl of bagpipes colled through Macdonald Park today as the 27th annual Highland Games danced and piped along.

It was sunny and hot when the crowd assembled before 9 this morning and it got hotter as the day wore on, but no one seemed to notice.

All eyes were on the field. On the raised central platform more than 200 young dancers took their turns.

Puffing away behind the platform two sunglasses-wearing pipers were taking turns piping the more than 150 pieces during the day.

"It's a long day," said Angus Stanfield as he let James Troy take the next piece.

KIND OF BORESOME'

"Gets kind of boresome after a while," muttered Troy as he prepared for yet another Highland fling.

The police know who the problem cases in their districts are, and what you can tell them might land some under-brained son-of-a-moron in a cage.

The parks branch, too, would appreciate a complete and accurate report of any such incidents.

City Teacher Dies on Visit To Portland

Ivor Parfitt, 60, well-known city music teacher, died Friday night in Portland while visiting his sister.

His death came only one week after he had attended a large family reunion here.

Mr. Parfitt was born in Bristol, England, in 1904 and came to Victoria where he began his education at the age of six.

He was a graduate of the school of music at the University of British Columbia and taught music at Kitsilano High School in Vancouver for 30 years.

He returned to Victoria four years ago and began teaching music at Mount Newton High School in Central Saanich.

Mr. Parfitt was an honorary life member of the B.C. Branch, Canadian Music Educators' Association.

Average catch for the day was a one, two or three-ounce bullhead. Red snappers were less common but when caught they tipped the scales over the one-pound mark. A rare catch of the day was a foot-long eel.

Best angler at the derby was 15-year-old Tim Chatton, 1651 St. Francis Wood, who reeled in a two-pound 5-ounce rat fish. He was presented with a bicycle by store manager Allan Leith.

Tied for second place were John Lucas, 1331 Lyall, and Bruce Gibson, 1999 Casa Marcia, who each won a snorkel set; and

Other survivors include three sisters, Mrs. G. H. E. Green, Vancouver; Mrs. J. Ingram Smith, Victoria; Mrs. Harry A. Renfrew, Lancaster, N.B.; three brothers, P. Dan Parfitt and Dr. David Parfitt, both of Victoria; Fred Parfitt, North Surrey, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by McCall Bros.

Last day for student applications for first year university is Aug. 15.

Registration is planned for Sept. 15 to Sept. 18 at the Gordon Head Campus, a University of Victoria spokesman said today.

He said the majority of applications from students wishing to enter university are expected next week after the results of the Grade 12 exams are out.

Eric Horwood and Walter Allan teamed to win local play of a nation-wide charity bridge game held here Friday.

All players at the 13 tables were given pre-dealt hands which had been analyzed by experts playing at the same time at the American Contract Bridge League's championships in Toronto.

Other winners were Ethel Cleworth and Hilda Price, second; Bill Brown-Cave and Les Isaacson, third; Harry Roll and Lilian Leibut, and Eric Goodwin and Bud Waddington, fourth-place tie, and Velma Acres and Jim Duprau, sixth.

2,000 Negroes In Riot

ROCHESTER, N.Y.
(UPI)—Two thousand enraged Negroes battled police and state troopers today in race-rioting and looting that lasted more than 10 hours.

City officials declared a public emergency and later imposed a city-wide curfew.

Steel-helmeted police and 211 state troopers used high pressure water hoses and tear gas grenades to bring the knife-wielding, brick and bottle-throwing Negroes under control.

There still were a few sporadic outbursts in the two-square mile Negro neighborhood where the violence erupted but the full-scale civil insurrection had been quieted by 10 a.m. EDT.

White toughs helped trigger the outbursts.

City officials were fearful that the widespread rioting and looting that injured 98 persons, including 24 policemen, might break out again at any moment.

City manager Porter W. Homer announced the curfew at 1:30 p.m. EDT following a meeting of top city officials.

CLOSE TAVERNS

Homer also asked that all bars and saloons stay closed and urged that even people with night jobs stay in their homes and off the streets.

The curfew was to be in effect from 8 p.m. until 7 a.m.

The curfew was to continue throughout the duration of the emergency.

Homer warned that any person found on the streets during the hours of curfew would be arrested unless he could prove that an emergency required him to leave his home.

The riot damage was in the millions. Virtually every store in a 10-block area along Joseph Avenue, the main thoroughfare in the 52-block Negro area of violence, was looted or damaged.

Police Chief William Lombard sped to the scene when the rioting started. Negroes mobbed his car, overturned it and set it on fire, and beat him. He was not seriously injured. Police surrounded him, battled off rioters with clubs, and took him out of the danger area.

Five fire companies were sent to the area. The Negroes chopped some of the hoses when high pressure streams were turned on them. A police dispatcher said that some of them used machetes.

Joseph Mazzeo, manager of the Emerson Western New York Inc., said rioters smashed into his company's warehouse and carried off hundreds of television and hi-fi sets. He estimated damage at $500,000.

"Anything they couldn't carry they broke," he said.

The riot began shortly before midnight, when two policemen tried to arrest a Negro for drunkenness at a street dance. Four Negro youths jumped the policemen, and dozens of others poured out of nearby bars and saloons and dance halls joining the battle.

Riot calls went out. As word

Peer Missing on Flight to Congo

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Hamilton left here by air tonight for Douala, Cameroons Republic, to join a search for his younger brother, Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, missing since Wednesday on a flight from New York to The Congo.

Lord Malcolm, 55, who lives in the United States, was flying a light twin-engined aircraft from New York to The Congo to deliver it to Air Congo airlines.

St. Catharines Wins Regatta Again

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—A one-two finish in the senior 125-pound eights clinched the Royal Canadian Henley regatta for the St. Catharines Rowing Club today—its fourth victory in a row.

2 Vessels In Trouble Off West Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian Coast Guard cutter and an RCAF Albatross aircraft were dispatched today to aid two vessels reported drifting in a heavy sea off the west coast of Vancouver Island near Tofino.

An RCAF search and rescue spokesman here said the aircraft would guide the cutter Reader to the area where the 40-foot American yacht Cape Marther is drifting with a dead battery. The fishing vessel Golden West was also drifting in the same area with a disabled propeller. The spokesman said neither vessel was in danger.

Australia to Keep Cricket Ashes

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—England, facing the colossal total of 565 for eight declared and left with nothing to play for but a tie, had reached 162 for two by the close against Australia in the fourth Test at Old Trafford here today.

Two days remain and England still needs another 295 to save the follow-on. Australia has placed themselves beyond all fear of retreat, thereby retaining the Ashes.

SHIP BLAST KILLS 200 IN ALGERIAN PORT

ALGIERS (Reuters)—At least 200 persons died and 22 were injured when the Egyptian ship Star of Alexandria blew up while unloading ammunition in the east Algerian port of Bone Thursday, latest estimates said today.

The figures were quoted by an employee of the Bone prefecture. He said an estimated 130 persons were missing and 52 seriously injured in hospitals.

Ambulances still took dead and injured to hospitals, and workers searched the shambles along the Bone waterfront.

A provisional estimate of damage to the harbor area was put at 70,000,000 dinars ($14,000,000).

The Algiers newspaper Alger Ce Soir said there were indications the explosion aboard the 2,738-ton vessel could have been "an act of sabotage committed by counter-revolutionaries from abroad."

Chief Justice Sherwood Lett Dies Suddenly

Government leaders, eminent jurists and prominent lawyers today paid tribute to Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the B.C. Court of Appeal, who died in Vancouver Friday night after a sudden relapse following a prolonged illness.

He would have been 69 next Saturday.

The chief justice suffered a heart attack while attending the opening of the B.C. legislature here last February.

His death came almost a year to the day after he ruled that the B.C. government's expropriation of the B.C. Electric company was unconstitutional.

Premier Bennett, whose government was the loser by the ruling, said he was "shocked and saddened" by the death of the chief justice.

"The people of this province and of Canada have suffered a great loss," said the premier, now awaiting the Salt Spring Island. "In his remarkable career may be seen the accomplishments, it seems, of several lifetimes."

Mr. Bennett spoke of his distinguished career as chancellor of UBC and later "as a gallant officer and senior commander in two world wars, as a leading

90 May Be Jobless

FIRE DESTROYS CHARITY BLOCK

SMOKE MUSHROOMED for five hours out of the old Brackman-Ker building this morning as city experienced its worst fire in many years.

The 58-year-old structure was half destroyed and the blaze knocked out the Goodwill Enterprises operation which employs 90 handicapped persons. Firemen had to tear the roof off to get at the fire in the walled-in top floor. Main worry of the firefighters was that the roof would blow off under the pressure of the smoke inside. (Halkett photo.)

Greek-Cypriots Smuggle More Military Supplies

NICOSIA (AP)—Greek-Cypriots poured more supplies into Cyprus today while United Nations forces delayed a show-down on their freedom of movement on the island.

A UN spokesman said 26 vehicles carrying crates and oil drums moved under armed escort from Limassol docks to Nicosia before dawn. It was the third large convoy carrying what is presumed to be military supplies into the island in five days.

In previous convoys, armed guards have kept UN observers off docks and away from trucks.

Friday night the docks were lit up and the entry gates closed. Civilian police were not allowed to enter.

The UN spokesman said, however, that no particular test was made Friday night to see whether restrictions were still in force despite Thant's appeal, delivered July 22.

Despite continued tension, the island was quiet, with only few scattered shots fired between the warring Greek and Turkish-Cypriots.

SUNNY SUNDAY

Sunday will be just that—a day with sun.

Weatherman William Macie said this afternoon temperatures should hit the high seventies in Victoria on Sunday, making the general forecast "sunny and warm, pleasantly so."

The mercury may dip to 33 tonight.

Rising temperatures are expected to increase the forest fire hazard, however, at least in the southern half of the province.

By Friday, 51 forest fires were burning in B.C., none of them considered dangerous.

IS YOGA FOR YOU?

You bet it is, as explained in a fascinating series of eight special articles, starting on page 21 in The Times tonight.

The series will describe and illustrate many exercises which will help you improve your figure, reduce your weight and increase your vitality.

UVIC OFFICIAL REPORTS

Canada Still Unknown In Continental Europe

By AB KENT

teacher education, athletics, adult education

U.K. Chant Report

The Robbins Report on higher education was issued while I was there and I found that very interesting. He returned recently after a 10-month leave of absence, nearly half of it spent on the continent, the other in the British Isles visiting colleges and universities.

"We haven't really done a selling job on Canada," Mr. Farquhar said.

"People over there are always polite and glad to see Canadians, but they don't really know anything about us and don't show any real interest. Australia is better known, largely. I think, due to athletics — their swimming, track, cricket, in which they do very well."

"There are many common problems there and here, he found lack of money, rapid growth, staffing, for example.

"In England, the government has an enlightened attitude toward higher education. It is considered a right, not a privilege, and therefore the government accepts 100 per cent of building costs.

"It quite surpasses anything we are doing."

Mr. Farquhar found some of the new universities are breaking away from tradition entirely. They may have an entire school of American studies, another of Asian studies, for instance.

It was in a tiny village school on the south coast of Spain. No one spoke or understood English, there were no maps, pictures or books and the children showed no spark of recognition when Mr. Farquhar, who speaks no Spanish, tried to tell them where he was from.

Spain Recovers

There are many poor areas in Spain, but "Spain has made a marvellous recovery since the Civil War. The resorts are booming. They are building high-rise apartments and hotels in the cities and coast areas and there is prosperity," he said.

In fact, he felt the only area that contains an escala clause is the area of Perugia, Italy, a university town, the Farquhars got a surprise. There, in a hotel, was a current issue of Beautiful British Columbia. The colorful quarterly was on display with the bounties of Victoria, "you could tell they didn't believe us. After a while we didn't bother."

"If I were to go again I would want to take a lot of publicity material with me. Once in Murcia (Spain) a group of boys clustered about the car and showed great interest in it."

"I wished I could have given them a brochure or something typical of the Victoria area. I tore the stamps off some letters in my pocket and I had some Canadian coins that I gave them."

Mr. Farquhar visited some 20 universities and colleges in England, courtesy of the British Council, which gave him a subsidy.

"I talked to people in all areas of university work — administration, buildings, development,

I hope we can profit by some of the things they are doing in higher education. If we don't do things a little differently at the start, it is hard to change later," Mr. Farquhar said, looking to the development of UVic.

Flexible, Exciting

About 90 per cent of English students still graduate as many or more at other countries."

Yet, because the universities frown on summer employment, preferring that students holiday or read up on their subjects or interests, it is difficult to find work during vacation to help pay tuition.

"They take in fewer students but graduate as many or more at other countries."
